Pope John plays in Super Bowl Saturday

By Cary Shuman

The Pope John XXIII High School football team will put its perfect record on the line when it plays St. Bernard's Central Catholic (Fitchburg) in the Division 8 Super Bowl Saturday at Gillette Stadium in Foxboro.

Pope John (12-0), who is led by head coach Paul Sobolewski, is seeking the school's second Super Bowl title, having won in 1998. Interestingly, the Tigers defeated Marian High School (Framingham) in that Super Bowl, and Marian's principal at the time was Carl DiMaiti, who is now Pope John's head of school.

"I was at that Super Bowl, it was at Tufts University," recalled DiMaiti, whose son, Drew, is a graduate of Tufts.

The Tigers have been one of the state's highest scoring teams, averaging 34 points a game. Senior quarterback Anthony Mejia and Jose Davila lead the Tigers' potent offense that has thrived under the direction of offensive coordinator Robert Sobolewski (Paul's brother).

Chief Mazzie appointed to another three-year term

By Seth Daniel

The Everett City Council approved another three-year term for Chief Steve Mazzie on Monday night, after Mayor Carlo DeMaria had appointed him to another term.

"I still have a passion for the job," said Mazzie, 50, after being appointed Monday. "I appreciate the opportunity to continue in the job. We have a good team in place."

In his coming term, Mazzie will also be faced with ensuring public safety for the new Encore Boston Harbor casino, which opens this coming June. That will be a major shift for the department, and is one that the Chief has been preparing for in brining on new officers over the last two years.

"We're seeing some of the biggest changes we've ever seen in the City and we'll play a big role in ensuring public safety for everyone, whether residents who live here or visitors to our city," he said.

Mayor Carlo DeMaria said he was proud to re-appoint the chief for another three years during a very exciting time in the City's history.

"The depth of knowledge and experience that Chief Mazzie has is beneficial to the Everett Police Department, City Hall and Everett as a whole," said the mayor. "That is why I have re-appointed him to the position of Chief of Police. I'm confident that he will continue to work towards making Everett one of the safest and most secure urban communities around. I'm proud to endorse him and the direction our city is heading."

Mazzie will begin his 16th year as chief in January, having taken the reins in January 2003.

Mazzie's father is a retired patrolman from the EPD, and his late grandfather was also a patrolman.

He also has two brothers and a sister that are part of the Everett Police Department as well.

Residential tax bill to rise modestly, commercial payers take larger hit

By Seth Daniel

The City Council made two key votes Monday night that helped to set the current fiscal year's tax rate, putting into place modest increases on the residential tax bill, but – for the first time in several years – some hefty increases for commercial/industrial properties.

"We're seeing commercial/industrial rates up significantly," said CFO Eric Demas. "Most of that is in the Commercial Triangle area. A lot of what we're seeing is industry is being pushed out of Cambridge and Somerville. Those uses need to be close to Boston and Everett and Chelsea are seeing the benefits of that with our properties. We're going back to what we had about 10 years ago. For the last several years, commercial/industrial stagnated while the residential values increased. We're seeing that change... Everything now is being driven by land. It's the one thing you cannot create more of. We thought we'd see it last year, but we didn't This year we see the increase and it's going back to what it was a decade ago."

The residential tax rate was set at $12.38 per $1,000 of value, with the commercial/industrial rate set at $35.27.

The Council also voted to install the 25 percent residential, owner-occupant exemption, and voted in the maximum shift of 1.75 percent to commercial property – as allowed by state law.

That translated to the average single-family tax bill coming in – with the exemption – at $3,032, which is up $194 over last year (about 5 percent).

Other average tax bills included (with exemption):

•Two-family, $4,832 (up by $116 or 2 percent).

•Three-family, $6,392 (up by $385 or 6 percent).

While those values seemed to moderate, it wasn't so for commercial/industrial properties due to the increase in the values of those properties after many years of slow growth.

Bike Path getting closer to complete connectivity

By Adam Swift

In the next several years, cyclists along the Northern Strand bike path that extends through Everett, Saugus, Revere, Lynn, and Malden can expect to see upgrades to the existing one-mile stretch of the path.

Alongside the landscape improvements to the existing path, preliminary plans are also in the works for a .75-mile extension of the path that would give cyclists and pedestrians easy access to the Gateway Shopping Center, the Encore Boston Harbor casino and the Mystic River.

Last week, representatives from both design firms involved with the two different phases of the project held a public meeting at City Hall.

The improvements to the current one-mile stretch of the path revolve around landscaping, signage, outdoor furniture/benches, and safety improvements to the access points at West and Prescott streets, according to Imogene Hatch, of Browne, Richardson, and Rowe Landscape Architects.

"We want to look at how to bring a sense of vibrancy and color to this corridor," said Hatch, building on features such as the community garden along the path.

The goal is also to have the path connect to schools, neighborhoods, and the downtowns along the nearly 12-mile corridor through the five communities.

If all goes according to plan, Hatch said plans for the landscape improvements will be submitted to the state at the end of January, with at least portions of the project going

Council agrees to further work on changes to habitability ordinance

By Seth Daniel

Despite pleas from City officials to reinstate the former apartment inspection ordinance, the Council agreed on Monday night to keep the matter on the table and work on some changes.

That came after the matter went through several twists and turns over the past few weeks, with Councilor Rosa DiFlorio calling for reconsideration of the revised ordinance after it was defeated last week.

"I live here with the people in Everett and there are people who live here who don't like this," said Councilor Michael Marchese, who initiated the change several weeks ago. "I get the calls and I hear the complaints. We just want to give the landlords a little protection so they don't get hit with multiple $1,500 fines and then they lose the property. This can be worked on."

Marchese began the issue several weeks ago when he won support of the Council to change the long-standing Habitability Ordinance so that inspections were voluntary, and not mandatory. The mandatory inspections had been in place since 2006, and City officials have said many times in the last few weeks that they have headed off many tragedies.

Marchese's support of the ordinance change, however, eroded between meetings, and the second vote to enact it lost. However, Councilor DiFlorio filed for reconsideration and the matter was back on Monday's agenda.

"There are two sides to every story," she said. "I don't want to tie the City's enforcement hands, but I brought it back to us because there are parts of this that are good. I hope we can work on this to make some changes."

Councilor Michael McLaughlin said that after some thought over the past week, he also believes there could be some improvements made.

CLIMATE CHANGE IS HAPPENING NOW

The report released last Friday by 13 U.S. government agencies concurring in an assessment that the effects of climate change will result in a 10 percent decline in the U.S. gross national product and the loss of $1 trillion in real estate by the year 2100 is sobering -- if not depressing -- and should be a wake-up call to our elected officials to take action immediately to lead the world in reversing the effects of man-made contributions to climate change.

The U.S. report comes on the heels of a similar study released by the United Nations two months previously that essentially stated that we are reaching a point of no return with climate change -- that even if the goals set by the Paris accords (from which the U.S. withdrew) are met, they probably are not sufficient to halt the deterioration in our environment and the negative effects of climate change.

In addition, there were two big stories in the New York Times this weekend about climate issues.

The first story detailed the ever-increasing use of coal in third world countries such as Vietnam, India, and Pakistan to generate electricity. Coal production is a dying industry in the U.S. and other Western nations, but its low price and availability in third world countries, including China, has made it the fuel of choice in the undeveloped world.

Even those who refuse to accept the science of climate change will admit that coal plants contribute greatly to air and water pollution -- and the multitude of new plants in Asia will have effects on our country even from half a world away.

The second story pointed out that the palm oil industry is destroying the rain-forests in Indonesia -- with the result that 35 times more carbon is being released into the world's atmosphere than from all other sources combined.

We don't pretend to be experts on anything, but, to paraphrase Bob Dylan, we don't need a scientist to tell us which way our climate is heading.

The evidence of the past 12 years of unprecedented climate events: Superstorms Katrina, Sandy, Harvey, Maria, and Michael; the past few years of destructive wild fires in California; the loss of sea ice in the Arctic; and the destruction of coral reefs because of warming ocean temperatures -- is right in front of us and brought into our living rooms almost on a daily basis

Hopefully, the ubiquity of these catastrophic climate events is not numbing us into a sense of unreality such that we fail to see the big picture.

A report prepared by scientists hired by the oil industry in the 1960s predicted that carbon dioxide emissions would cause global warming with catastrophic effects -- and a study commissioned a decade later by none other than Exxon confirmed those findings.

In our view, climate change is happening faster than even the worst-case scenarios of the past and present have predicted -- and with the window to take action rapidly closing, we are not optimistic about the fate of our planet.

MYSTERY PHOTO OF THE WEEK

"We're seeing one acre lots sell for $2 million," said Assessor Bill Hart.

Many commercial type properties will see large increases on the tax bill, Demas and new Assessor Bernard Devereux said.

Examples included the average chain convenience store going up from $21,529 to $29,024 -- an increase of $7,495 or 35 percent.

A typical fast food restaurant would see a $12,379 increase to around $62,160 annually. That was a 25 percent increase.

A typical warehouse would see an increase of $7,229 for a $28,050 tax bill, which is an increase of 35 percent.

Demas told the Council that the City was strong financially, despite the fact that this has been dubbed the most challenging financial year for the City prior to the opening of the casino.

"The City is financially strong and I'm very pleased where we are," said Demas. "We will only get stronger. We're just in uncharted waters right now as we have the largest construction project on the eastern seaboard. It's having an impact on our valuations. We're seeing numbers across the board. Last year the single families went way up, and this year they stabilized...Business owners will feel it a little more this year. It's the growing pains...We're now going to see all that start to balance off."

The City also provided relief to the tax rate by using $4 million of recently approved Free Cash from the state. The City was approved for $9.99 million in Free Cash, and the Council approved the use of $4 million of that for tax relief on Monday.

•A major piece of the tax situation in Everett has been the astronomical "new growth" number that the City gets to add to the overall tax levy. A tax levy is the total amount the City is allowed to raise from taxpayers. In most years, the City gets to raise 2.5 percent more than it raised in the previous year. As part of that formula, they get to add "new growth" to the total. In most years, that number is about $1 million or less and it represents the value of new construction in the City.

This year, because of the ongoing Encore project, the new growth number in Everett is $23.5 million -- nearly 25 percent of the entire tax levy.

Demas said there are several reasons for the large number, as there are many construction projects now in the works, but most of that number comes from Encore.

•The City was approved recently for $9.99 million in Free Cash, and $3.6 million in Water and Sewer Enterprise Fund Free Cash.

"Those are both very healthy surpluses," Demas said.

He said that he is soon going to propose using about 50 percent of the surpluses to deposit into Rainy Day Funds that have been used. He said those funds need to be built back up, and now might be a good time to do that. He said the administration plans to propose those transfers to the Council in the near future.

tory over Matignon/St. Joseph Prep on Thanksgiving. St. Bernard's (11-1) will present a huge test for the Pope John defense. The Saints have defeated Narragansett (44-7), Lunenburg (44-7), and Hoo-sac Valley (42-0) in state play-offs.

"My reports are that St. Bernard's is a very tough team," said DiMaiti. "Their coaching staff stood in the end zone on Thanksgiving morning watching us play Matignon, so I'm sure they'll be ready. St. Bernard's has been in the Super Bowl a couple of times recently, and I think anytime you go through that and play at Gillette, it gives you an advantage."

DiMaiti, who was instrumental in St. Mary's athletic success during his tenure as head of the Lynn school, said the football season has been exciting for everyone at Pope John. He lauded coach Paul Sobolewski, who has done a superb job in leading the Tigers on to the biggest stage (Gillette) in high school sports.

"Coach Sobolewski's leadership has been absolutely incredible, and it really comes down to someone who works very, very hard and is highly disciplined," said DiMaiti. "His players reflect both his own personal discipline and the hard work."

Pope John will have a fan bus leaving from the school at 7:15 a.m.

out to bid in the early spring. A public meeting for the final design plans will likely be scheduled for next March, she said.

Hatch said there is about $11 million in funding for the five communities for the improvements, and that money will be spread out over two years.

The extension of the bike path, while for a shorter stretch than the one mile in place, provides a big set of challenges, according to Jay Monty, the City's transportation planner.

The proposed path along the Rockport/Newburyport MBTA line will require traversing train tracks, wetlands, and private property, among other obstacles.

"There have been a lot of conversations with various agencies," said Monty.

Aleece D'Onofrio, a senior transportation engineer for Stantec, gave an update on the preliminary designs for that bike path extension at last week's meeting.

The terminus of the Northern Strand currently sits at Wellington Avenue and West Street, D'Onofrio said.

At an earlier public meeting in May, D'Onofrio said the big takeaway from the public was that they wanted to make sure the path had a lot of connectivity.

"People want to connect with current paths and businesses," she said, with the eventual goal of being able to take one route by bike or foot into Somerville and Boston.

The preliminary design presented by Stantec has that connectivity to the Gateway Center, winding behind the large shopping plaza and under two MassDOT bridges as it makes its way to the Mystic River.

"This has taken a lot of coordination," D'Onofrio said. "The project includes coordination with the MBTA, MassDOT, the DEP, DCR, DDR, Encore (Casino), and Bike to the Sea."

The next steps for the project include a complete survey of the proposed path, structural design for the bridge areas, and preliminary design, which D'Onofrio said will hopefully be completed by the end of 2019.

Final design would then be completed in early to mid-2020 with construction getting underway in the fall of 2020, if all goes according to schedule.

When all the pieces of the bicycle paths from the North Shore into Boston are connected, Monty said it will be an impressive feat.

"These are all links in a chain," he said. "The magnitude of all these things, when there are done, is really going to be astounding."

SUPPORTING A GOOD CAUSE

On Friday night, Patti Frati and Councilor Michael McLaughlin attended the 10th annual Helping Families Gala to support For Kids Only After School Program in the City of Everett.

All of that came after four City officials testified as to how important the habitability inspections of apartments are for the City.

Building Inspector Jim Soper said he believes inspections have saved lives, including at the major fire last summer on Morris Street – where inspectors uncovered major violations just days before the fire.

“I think it’s important we don’t take this ordinance change lightly,” he said. “When something is voluntary, if there is time or money involved, people will be deterred from doing it.”

“This is very important to this community,” he continued. “People who come into this community and rent these apartments may have no idea what is safe and what isn’t in regards to building codes. We’re here to help them. Please let us do it.”

Fire Chief Tony Carli said they have never received a complaint about the inspection system, and he also said it has streamlined the process.

“I don’t think landlords will call us for inspections if not compelled to do so,” he said.

Police Chief Steve Mazzie also testified in favor of the ordinance to remain unchanged.

The matter will go before the Council at its next meeting in two weeks.

Visible Thanksgiving overdose wake-up call to opiate epidemic

By Seth Daniel

While overdoses aren’t spiking in Everett, they continue to be very steady and one fatal overdose on the sidewalk at Glendale Park on Thanksgiving morning has provided another wake-up call to the ongoing epidemic.

Around 11:30 a.m. on Thanksgiving morning, several people passing by Glendale Park reported a woman lying on the sidewalk motionless. Police responded and found that the woman was dead, and the matter is being investigated as a suspected overdose.

Chief Steve Mazzie said there wasn’t a lot of information that could be released, but he did say police found the deceased woman on the street at Glendale, and they are treating it as a suspected overdose death.

The sad situation is in the hands of the District Attorney’s office now, but in Everett it has been cause for a new push to highlight the epidemic and treatment options that are available.

SUD Program Director Tori Cyrus said the numbers of overdoses in Everett is actually down year to date. From Jan. 1, to Nov. 27, 2017, there were 164 overdoses in the city. In that same time this year, there have been 127.

“We actually saw a decrease in overdoses in the summer, and then as soon as the season changed, we saw an increase or influx of overdoses,” she said. “We’ve really seen an influx of overdoses with females. We are seeing that influx of overdoses with the seasonal change, but it is no more than in November last year. This was a very public overdose, but a lot of our overdoses are seen in residential properties. So, that means we’re seeing a lot of families going through this.”

Chief Mazzie said he also believes the numbers are steady, not that they are good, but they aren’t increasing. That said, finding a woman dead on the sidewalk on Thanksgiving morning leaves room for many to pause.

Cyrus said since she came on in February 2017, the City has made much progress with her Roadmap to Recovery program.

Officially, she works out of the Fire Department, and a major part of her job is to follow up on overdoses.

Through very meticulous data and record keeping, Cyrus’s office keeps track of every overdose in Everett – who overdosed, where and where they are from.

Using that information, Cyrus makes home visits a day or two after someone overdoses and recovers.

“If someone does overdose in Everett, we will go to their home with 24 to 48 hours to follow up,” she said. “When we do go there for visits, it isn’t an enforcement thing, but making them aware that there are people in the City of Everett in position to help them if they are ready to get help. If we don’t make contact with them, I always leave a hand-written note with my contact and a list of resources.”

The City offers support groups, links to recovery services, and family support groups.

Another thing they offer is Narcan training for users, and families that have a user in the house at risk for overdose.

Cyrus said Narcan is available through that program at any pharmacy, and can be filled like any regular prescription. If anyone encounters any trouble in getting Narcan, she said to contact her at (617) 874-0489.

The suspected overdose on Thanksgiving morning continues to be under investigation.

requested that they be allowed to do an independent peer review of the plan, a $10,000 review that would come on Encore’s dime.

The review will happen in quick time, and whoever conducts it will meet with departments such as the police, fire and DPW to develop a set of recommendations.

“The peer review would generate a report for us and in that report would be recommendations,” he said. “We would try to get those in as part of the relief.”

He said the City’s main concerns are proper lighting, proper markings in the lot, drainage to the Malden River and the security staffing.

“We need to think about what kind of security there will be for someone coming off of a shift at one of the restaurants and coming back to their car in a dark, dank place in the middle of nowhere,” Soper said.

Councilor Michael McLaughlin, who represents the area, said he now believes it is a plan that is in the best interests of Everett.

“I have come to fully understand the plan for the temporary 36-month parking proposal at the current GE site,” he said. “I strongly believe it is in the best interest of our community to keep this site with Wynn Resorts because of the strong working relationship with our community. We can work to a better, more successful and useful proposal for that site as a whole.”

He said his main questions revolve around how the cars would get to the lot in an area like the Village that is already very congested.

“The company has assured me with new infrastructure improvements vehicles will not impact the local streets,” he said. “I strongly believe that this will be a project that we will have to watch and make adjustments to as it develops. But I really feel comfortable with the development of Encore Boston Harbor and our working relationship to help resolve any bumps in the road that may occur.”

Soper said the plan and review would likely be discussed at the Dec. 10 Planning Board meeting, and would come back before the ZBA on Dec. 17. A Site Plan Review process will take place at the Planning Board’s second December meeting, possibly on Dec. 24.

CITY, DEMARIA HOLD BENCH DEDICATION

On Wednesday, Nov. 14, Mayor Carlo DeMaria and the City of Everett held a special bench dedication at the site of what was once Angelina’s Sub Shop. The bench is dedicated in honor of the memory of Mr. Ali S. Ali, the owner of Angelina’s and lifelong Everett resident. Dozens of family members including his wife, along with municipal officials attended the event.

Mayor DeMaria stated, “Mr. Ali was much more than just the proprietor of Angelina’s, he was a true Everett icon and part of the very fabric of the City. He was always there to lend an ear or to talk over a cup of coffee with someone in need.”

Angelina’s subs were legendary, but so was he, he was kind, generous, and always willing to give back to the community in many ways. He was a great family man. Married to his lovely wife Najah for over 60 years and father of six children, Adele, Amele, Hannan, Essam, Bessam (Sam) and Hisham. He left a great legacy behind and truly made his mark on this city. He will always be missed.

School Committeeman Frank Parker, Najah Ali, Mayor Carlo DeMaria and Councillor Anthony DiPierro.

John DiBiaso takes break from Super Bowl chase to be inducted in to Basketball Coaches Hall of Fame

By Cary Shuman

The speech was a classic, but what else would you expect from John DiBiaso, who always delivered the goods in big moments?

He spoke about his beautiful wife and family, administrators like Kay Donovan and Frederick Foresteire, who supported him well on his successful journey, the great players he coached, and the unforgettable memories of his teams playing at the Boston Garden.

He was gracious, humble, self-deprecating, and humorous. If there's a Hall of Fame for acceptance speeches for the Hall of Fame, John DiBiaso is a unanimous selection there, too.

The momentous occasion was the Massachusetts Basketball Coaches Association (MBCA) Hall of Fame Banquet Sunday at the College of the Holy Cross where John DiBiaso was honored as both an inductee and for surpassing 500 wins in his coaching career at Everett High School.

MBCA President Tom Cavanaugh introduced DiBiaso as "the only coach in Massachusetts state with 500 basketball wins and 300 football wins." His Catholic Memorial football team will play in the Super Bowl Saturday at Gillette Stadium.

The proud Everett High and Tufts alumnus began by thanking the Association for the prestigious award.

"It means a lot to me having coached 35 years of high school basketball at the same school," said DiBiaso. "The first superintendent (Kay Donovan) gave me the opportunity at 26 years old as a head coach and during that time I've also had a great superintendent in Fred Foresteire, who came aboard in 1990. I've worked for four different principals, Ed Leo, Tom Kingston, Lou Baldi, and Erick Naumann. All have been extremely supportive. The administration at Everett has been great to me. The assistant superintendent, Charlie Obremski played for me, so he's been supportive of the basketball program and he also runs the concession stand for me – you don't see that too often."

Foresteire, who has made sure that Everett coaches and basketball players had the resources and support they need to succeed on the court and in the classroom, congratulated DiBiaso on the esteemed recognition from his peers in coaching.

"It's just another deserving recognition – it shows what an outstanding coach and individual that John DiBiaso is," said Foresteire. "Without question, he is a special guy. Obviously he runs an exemplary program. He has shown it now where he is at Catholic Memorial. He's a legend in his own time."

DiBiaso thanked his assistant coaches through the years, noting the helpfulness of 21-year assistant Paul Bertone, "who was totally organized, the opposite of what I was. He had a checklist of everything when we got on the bus: basketballs, medical kits, spare shirts, spare pants, basketball pump. We were driving to Lynn and he told me he forgot a pencil sharpener. He used to carry two No. 2 pencils for the scorebook in case one broke. Paul and I got along great because we kind of filled in each other's gaps."

There were the respectful nods to some of Everett's all-time hoop greats such as Pat Bradley, who played at Arkansas and set the SEC record for three-pointers, Shannon Crooks, who became a captain at UMass/Amherst, John Sagarino, who led Bentley to the Division 2 Final Four, and Ghared Boyce, who scored 2,000 points in his career.

"I can't name them all, but they were all great kids," said DiBiaso. "They call me at Christmastime and during the holidays. I've been extremely fortunate over the 35 years to meet some wonderful young men, and hopefully I've been a little part in contributing to them becoming men."

He mentioned the team managers, including Mo St. Fleur, whom the DiBiaso family so generously welcomed in to its home when St. Fleur's house burnt down and he had no place to live. DiBiaso was instrumental (with Leo Papile) in getting St. Fleur a job with the Boston Celtics.

DiBiaso recalled his teams' three trips to the Boston Garden in 1991, 1994, and 2017. Future NBA player Travis Best and an undefeated Springfield Central team denied Everett's bid for a state title in 1991.

He saved his most heartwarming tributes for his family, his wife, Maureen, who has been the Everett High cheerleading coach, and his children, Kristina and Jonathan.

"The person I want to thank the most is my wife and children," said DiBiaso. "I actually met Maureen on Jan. 16, 1987. We've been married 30 years."

He told an anecdote about how then-Everett High teacher Maureen Shields came to an Everett boys basketball game and a group of teachers, John DiBiaso included, went to a local restaurant after the game.

"We went out with a bunch of teachers," recalled DiBiaso. "Lo and behold, I'm left with Maureen and three other male teachers at the table. Maureen left the table, so while she was away, I strategically took out $30 and gave each teacher $10 to leave, so I was the only one there when Maureen came back. I called Maureen Saturday night and we talked for six hours. We went to Mass the next day, we dated for a year-and-a-half, and we got married a year-and-a-half later."

DiBiaso said he and his family have "so many fond memories" about the 35 years of coaching in Everett.

"It's been a great opportunity and a great lifestyle for me and my family over these years and we're going to miss (coaching basketball)," said DiBiaso. "My wife and children have been great. I'm definitely going to miss the Friday night games, the Saturday morning practices, and the March (MIAA) Tournament – which I still say is the most exciting event in Massachusetts high school sports. Playing at the Garden is an experience of a lifetime your players never forget."

"It's been a wonderful ride," he concluded. "Maureen and I have enjoyed every second of it. My daughter, Kristina, my son, Jonathan – we're going to remember this for the rest of our lives, and hopefully we'll tell our grandchildren about all these wonderful memories."

A second standing ovation accompanied the greatest coach in Everett history – and now a two-sport Hall of Fame inductee – back to his seat next to his wife, Maureen, his loving companion and biggest supporter.

Rep. Joseph McGonagle (second from right) presents Manufacturing Award to representatives of Colonial Marble Co.

McGonagle presents Colonial Marble Co. with Manufacturing Award at State House

Earlier this month, State Rep. Joe McGonagle (D-Everett) of the 28th Middlesex District honored Colonial Marble Company (CMC) with a Manufacturing Award at the State House. This was the state's Third Annual Manufacturing Award Ceremony sponsored by the Legislature's Manufacturing Caucus that was formed in 2014.

CMC specializes in the installation of beautiful marble and terrazzo and has employed union craftsman for most of the 20th century. Their work can be seen throughout the Greater Boston area. "I am so proud of CMC, an Everett company, for receiving this manufacturing award," commented Rep. McGonagle.

The Manufacturing Award Ceremony honored 59 manufacturers throughout the state and showcased their innovative and revolutionary manufacturing capabilities and products. "Massachusetts has a very strong manufacturing sector -- and I'm proud to be a member of the House of Representatives where we are funding critical programs to keep our innovation economy thriving," said McGonagle.

Formed in August 2014, the Manufacturing Caucus includes more than 60 legislators from around the Commonwealth. Lawmakers focus on training for manufacturing employees; encouraging innovation by helping start-ups access resources; and expanding apprenticeship opportunities in key manufacturing sectors.

The event included companies who make furniture, jewelry, handcrafted electric bicycles, precision screw machined parts, marble and granite, custom paper, flutes and piccolos, precision machined parts for aerospace, and even hummus and peanut butter.

Tide Rolls

Defeats MASCO, 32-0 in Thanksgiving Day game

By Independent Staff

The Everett High School football team wrapped up its 2018 season with a 32-0 victory over Masconomet Regional on Thanksgiving morning at Walt Roberts Field in Boxboro.

Seniors Mike Sainristil and Isaac Seide each scored two touchdowns in a game that was played in frigid temperatures.

Everett relied on its rushing attack against Masconomet (4-7) and the offensive line provided strong blocking for the backfield and sophomore quarterback Duke Doherty.

Sainristil opened the scoring with a nine-yard run, followed by placekicker Joseph Adriano's first of two PATs. Seide (10 carries for 87 yards) followed with a 23-yard run as Everett built a 14-0 lead after one quarter.

Sainristil (13 carries for 55 yards) struck again on a four-yard run to increase the lead to 20-0 at the half.

After a scoreless third quarter, Seide impressed the fans with a spectacular 36-yard touchdown run. Doherty completed the scoring with a six-yard run for a touchdown.

Doherty's emergence as a poised, dual-threat quarterback was one of the highlights of the season. The first-year signal caller finished among the state leaders in touchdown passes.

Everett finishes with a 10-1 record under first year coach Theluxon Pierre.

Supt. of Schools Frederick Foresteire commended Pierre and the team for a successful season.

"It was a great year – who else has a 10-1 record," said Foresteire. "It was great for the new coach and his staff. Coach Pierre has done an outstanding job in his first year. He's a dedicated young man and we're glad to have him as our coach. I hope he continues growing the program." Sainristil, who has committed to Michigan, and other Everett players, will surely rack up post-season accolades such as Globe and Herald All-Scholastic honors. Sainristil leaves the EHS football program as one of the greatest players in school history.

Isaac Seide sees open field and busts his way up the field to score for the Tide. Seide had two touchdowns on the day, one on an 18-yard run and the second in the fourth quarter after rumbling 39-yards to pay dirt.

Defensive backs Chonlee Cine (#24) and Samy Lamothe (#7) combine to stop Masco's big running back (#34) Jay Theriault, who barely hung on to the football.

A big part of Everett's game came from kicker (#13) Adans Joseph Adriano, who despite a strong wind in his face, was able to consistently make solid contact with the ball and bury Masco deep in their own zone, a place they barely were able to escape from all game.

Everett's Kam Williams slams into Chieftain quarterback (#18) Marshall Lastes, knocking the ball off course and sending Lastes to the sideline for the remainder of the half.

Everett's (#15) Trey Sejour reaches out in an effort to recover a fumbled ball after the Chieftains kick-off return man had it deflect sharply off his chest. Everett would assume possession deep in Masco territory.

Mike Sainristil plots his path past a Masconomet player and toward the end zone for Everett. Sainristil completed the day with two touchdowns for the Tide.

Free parking to start for holiday season

Mayor Carlo DeMaria and the Office of the Parking Clerk are happy to announce the suspension of parking meter fees for a period during the holiday season. From Saturday, Dec. 1 to Wednesday, Jan. 2, all parking meters in the City will be free of charge. The Mayor encourages everyone to consider Everett's businesses and restaurants first when choosing holiday destinations.

"Small businesses help to drive our economy, and I hope that providing free parking in our community, people will shop local." Mayor DeMaria states, "We all know that each dollar you spend at a small independent business, returns three times more money to a local economy than one spent at a chain."

Everett toy drive to get underway

Mayor Carlo DeMaria and the Office of Human Services will once again be collecting new and unwrapped toys for Everett children this holiday season. Drop off your donation by Monday, Dec. 17, at the Mayor's Office or attend the Christmas Tree Lighting on Friday, Nov. 30, and drop off a toy for an Everett child.

Each year the Office of Human Services, along with the Council on Aging, provide assistance to well over 500 local families. Some examples of the services provided throughout the year include fuel and heating assistance, the prevention of utility shut-offs and evictions, holiday meals, and Christmas gifts for children. Last year's toy drive successfully provided for 700 children.

"Everett is such a strong community," states Mayor DeMaria, "filled with compassionate and caring people - and it really shows during the holiday season. Every year City officials, businesses, and residents alike join together and support our Office of Human Services. These donations are a true example of the spirit of the season and of what the holidays should be about - giving, sharing, and helping those in need. So please, be sure to donate a toy for a child in Everett."

PCSS students celebrate Veterans Day

Students at Pioneer Charter School of Science 1 Lower School (PCSS1) in Everett celebrated Veterans Day by writing notes to veterans thanking them for their service. The school held an assembly featuring a presentation by PCSS1 Dean, Davit Micu, and School Counselor, Nichole Boucher, who taught students about the work veterans do to protect our freedom and keep us safe. PCSS1 first graders celebrated by writing letters addressed to soldiers and veterans offering kind and encouraging sentiments including: "Dear Veteran, Thank you for protecting us. You are very brave. - Katrina." and "Dear Veteran, Thanks for keeping us safe. And protecting our families. And don't be scared. - Reda".

PCSS offers a rigorous academic curriculum that emphasizes math, science, and analytical thinking skills balanced by a strong foundation in the humanities. The schools offer extended days/hours and career-oriented college preparation. Students must pass five math and five science classes in order to graduate, more than state standards, and must also complete 40 hours of community service. The schools have a 200-day school calendar, extended days (7:30 a.m. - 3.35 p.m.), tutoring until 4:30 p.m. and "voluntary" Saturday classes for students who need extra help.

On last year's MCAS,

PCSS students outperformed students from neighboring districts, as well as statewide averages, and the school earned Level 1 status from the state - the highest designation of academic achievement. PCSS has been recognized nationally by both U.S. News & World Report and Newsweek as one of America's best schools.

Encore Boston Harbor commits $10 million to Greater Boston social, civic institutions

Staff Report

Encore Boston Harbor is committing $10 million over the next four years to support a wide range of social programs and civic institutions that will help those in need and improve the lives of residents in local communities, the company announced on Tuesday – also known as Giving Tuesday.

To assist in managing funds and identifying the most meaningful philanthropic efforts, the company is partnering with the Connors Family Office, led by Boston civic leader Jack Connors Jr.

“Giving back to the communities where our employees and guests live and work has always been a part of who we are as a company,” said Matt Maddox, CEO of Wynn Resorts. “It’s not in our corporate DNA to just write a check for a donation or buy a table at a charity event. We want to make an impactful difference in the lives of people and effect real and positive changes in our communities. We believe committing $10 million and teaming with the Connors Family Office will go a long way towards realizing our goal.”

Together, the Connors Family Office and Encore Boston Harbor will develop an Advisory Committee to advise on and assist in the disbursement of funds from Encore Boston Harbor. The committee will provide recommendations to Encore Boston Harbor for the distribution of funds, targeting programs that support at-risk-youth education, cultural enrichment and vibrant communities.

“It is impressive to see a new business come into town and make such a concerted effort to positively impact the surrounding community,” said Jack Connors Jr. “Encore Boston Harbor is poised to make a real difference for some very worthy organizations.”

Encore Boston Harbor has been active in local philanthropy prior to Tuesday’s announced commitment of $10 million. Long-standing recipients of Encore’s corporate giving include the Boston Pops, Wang Theater, New England Center for Arts and Technology, Disabled American Veterans, and Latino 30 Under 30, among others. Recently, Encore Boston Harbor donated $100,000 in support of The Greater Lawrence Disaster Relief Fund.

Encore Boston Harbor announced last week that it was the lead sponsor and supporter of a unique partnership between the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, and the Boston Public Library that is bringing a major exhibit by renowned French painter Henri de Toulouse-Lautrec to the MFA.

The $2.6 billion Encore Boston Harbor resort is scheduled to open in June 2019.
