EVERETT HIGH SCHOOL HOMECOMING

Roll Tide... Emerging star Jaden Clerveaux (20) is hoisted into the air by offensive lineman Jason Portillo after a score by the sophomore running back that put Everett up for good in their 36-21 defeat of the Brockton Boxers. The exciting game was part of a blockbuster Homecoming weekend for the City and the Schools.

Gov. Baker joins with Mayor DeMaria to call for passage of Housing Choice Bill

Using Everett as his ninth stop on a tour promoting the Housing Choice Bill currently pending in the State Legislature, Gov. Charlie Baker joined Everett Mayor Carlo DeMaria, the Everett Legislative delegation, and local leaders to highlight the legislation he filed in February.

That legislation calls for targeted zoning reform to advance new housing production in Massachusetts and support the Administration's goal to produce 135,000 new housing units by 2025.

Gov. Baker led off the event by stating that Everett has had the third highest number of housing unit building-permits granted in the state.

"Communities as diverse as Everett in Greater Boston and Williamstown in the Berkshires know that Massachusetts has a housing crisis, and the lack of affordable and available housing is a serious problem for the Commonwealth," said Gov. Baker. "We have filed An Act to Promote Housing Choices to jumpstart the construction of housing in every region of the Commonwealth by empowering communities to build the housing they need where they need it. We will continue to work with our legislative colleagues to swiftly take this

The first-ever Everett Community Art Walk brought its walking shoes on Tuesday morning and was ready to stroll.

Cultural Council Chair Karyn Alzayer led the charge on Tuesday in City

She asked many businesses to host just one piece of art, and planned a scavenger hunt around the City during the month of October – all of it centered around recognizing and activating the arts community in the usual places and many unexpected places.

"I walked so many miles looking for space, but I ended up getting 29 businesses to say yes," she said. "We have 53 pieces artwork hidden around the City in a fun citywide arts scavenger hunt for everyone to discover this month. I'm so excited to many places agreed to participate and so many artists agreed to share their work. It's very excited to start forming an arts community in Everett."

An Opportunity

Mayor touts idea of purchasing Pope John property for senior, veteran housing

By Seth Daniel

Mayor Carlo DeMaria said late last week that he intends to pursue the idea of buying the shuttered Pope John High School on upper Broadway for the purpose of turning it into affordable senior and veteran housing.

The mayor said the property would have to be purchased with City funds, and he would need to win Council support, but the opportunity is one he doesn't want to pass up.

"Pope John is on the market," he said. "We have a lot of charter schools who may try to buy it and expand. Charter schools are good for education, but they also hurt cities and towns. There is an opportunity here for us...I look at it as a neighborhood to build senior and veteran housing. We're in the early stages right now."

DeMaria said the area is just right for such a proposal, as it's not a heavily commercial area and it's near

City provides update on departmental evaluations, library director search

Laura Plummer

Councilor Fred Capone invited Mayor Carlo DeMaria to the Council meeting on Monday, Sept. 23, to answer questions regarding the results of the departmental evaluations conducted by the temporary Organizational Assessment Department - and also to update Council on the search for a permanent library director.

Mayor DeMaria did not

The Organizational Assessment Department was created in the wake of what was revealed to be a gross mishandling of City funds, and was meant to thoroughly evaluate all City departments to expose any signs of corruption or nepotism and to make recommendations on how they could run more efficiently. # Cynthia Sarnie announces candidacy for Everett School Committee At Large Cynthia Sarnie announces her candidacy for Everett School Committee At large; the following is her statement.

"I, Cynthia Sarnie of 30 Forest Ave, am pleased to announce my candidacy for School Committee At Large for the City of Everett. As most of you know, I have proudly represented my constituents for 10 years on the City Council.

As a lifelong resident and an Everett homeowner, my roots here in Everett are strong. The last three generations of my family, including my two children, were raised in Everett and educated in Everett Public Schools. I am employed at Century Bank and Trust as Accounting Supervisor.

I have worked to solve many issues facing our city. One of the chief concerns is the quality of life in Everett. I support youth and elderly programs, as well as the public safety departments. My unwavering dedication to my constituents and to Everett compels me to advocate for enhanced human services, quality education, and cleaner and safer neighborhoods.

I have served on committees that identify and address priority needs in the community (Finance, Rules and Ordinances, Public Safety and Public Service). While a member of the City Council, we established a program giving Everett resident's preferential status when seeking employment with the City. I am still a strong believer on this ordinance.

Teachers play an important role in our lives. I know first-hand how important my teachers were when growing up. When I was young my father died in a tragic car accident when I was 3 months old, leaving my mom to raise four children. A few years later tragedy struck again. I was 16 when my mother passed away with breast cancer. I was a junior in high school at the time. I vividly remember my teacher Ms.Hannafit and Mr. Towers who not only took on the role of my mentor for weighing important life decisions but also a friend, who encouraged me to be strong and provided me with a trusted source of guidance. Both inspired me to work harder and peruse my goals. I would not be here today if it was not for teachers like Ms.Hannafit and Mr. Towers.

The value of a teacher in a student's life cannot be overstated. The role of a teacher in 21st century education extends way beyond the classroom. In addition to being experts in all subjects taught, teachers help up build the foundation of a better tomorrow.

I have a proven track record of fighting for the citizens of Everett. I will continue to listen to your concerns and speak on your behalf. I work for you! I will work for our teachers and children! With your vote and my dedication, we can achieve results. Help me make our community a better place to live.

said the effort is all about putting art and culture at the center of development and the business commu-

"I am proud to support the Everett Cultural Council for funding the Everett Community Art Walk along with other outstanding projects," said Mayor Carlo DeMaria. "I also want to thank our legislative delegation for providing the annual appropriation to the Massachusetts Cultural Council, which allows them to fund many art and cultural projects in our community. Local partnership like this between artists, nonprofits, businesses, and the city, makes Everett unique in putting culture at the center of economic and community development."

Congresswoman Ayanna Pressley said the arts are something we all enjoy, but supporting the artists in a community is often overlooked. She said artists all too often live below the poverty line and have trouble finding housing and workspaces.

She was very excited to see City government and business working together.

"I have found the best partnerships are those that are community driven and government endorsed," she said. "This is a truly integrated effort. Truly, art belongs everywhere."

A map that can be obtained on the Art Walk website or in City Hall shows all of the locations and describes the artwork located across the City. Residents are encouraged to use the map to guide them to see the art in new and different places.

Congresswoman Ayanna Pressley cut the ceremonial ribbon for this year's Community Art Walk, which began on Tuesday and will continue throughout the month of October. Artwork is displayed at businesses and community spaces throughout the City, and residents are encouraged to seek it out in a type of arts scavenger hunt. Joining Pressley were Councilor Fred Capone, Sen. Sal DiDomenico, Cultural Council Chair Karyn Alzayer, and Councilor Michael McLaughlin.

One of those places is the Flavia Leal Institute – a hair design school on Chelsea Street that many know about, but few have visited. During October, Leal said she would host artwork and is very excited about it.

"It's a great opportunity," she said. "We have an opportunity to bring different people into our business. I am from Brazil originally, but I've been here 20 years now. At our business, a lot of Brazilians or Hispanic folks come to the store, but not a lot of other kinds of Americans. We've been there a long time, and there are a lot of people who know about us. But our store does tend to get the same clients. This will bring new people in to see what we do and learn about our business."

The art walk features locations on Main Street, Broadway, Norman Street, the Parkway Chelsea Street, Ferry Street and many other places. There will be a closing reception on Thursday, Nov. 7, at 6:30 p.m. in the Village Bar & Grill, 38 Norman St.

For those interested in purchasing any of the artwork they see, they can email integralartseverett@ gmail.com.

Participating artists are Daud Alzayer, Karyn Alzayer, Karen McCune Barcka, Gabriela Crinigan, Julia Da Luz, Sarah Darling, Catherine Daze, Myrlene "Mimi" Legendre Desir, Joanna Garren, Amanda Gil, Shaina Gruen, Lois Hutchinson, Annette Le-Ray, Nirvanna Lildharrie, Lou Lim, Ann LoConte, Jovce Menna, Barbara Messana, Erika Morton, Sarah Narkum, Ann Nigro, Tina M. # Council says city's rat response not enough

By Laura Plummer

On Monday, Sept. 23, the Council heard from the Assistant City Solicitor Keith Slattery regarding the City's approach to managing the rodent problem in Everett. By and large, councilors were disappointed with the response and urged the City to do more.

Council first raised the issue at their meeting on September 3, where they called for a representative of the City to appear at their next meeting to provide an update on rodent control initiatives.

Slattery said that in the wake of complaints to the Inspectional Services Department from residents on Devine, Ferry, Irving and Summer streets, the City had utilized a seasonal information campaign to educate the public. This included passing out fliers emphasizing the importance of properly storing garbage outdoors, sealing bins, and managing overgrowth that could lead to nesting. The Assistant City Solicitor reported that complaint calls have since de-

However, councilors expressed that the problem was larger in scope than just the streets mentioned and that it warranted a citywide strategy. Councilor Wayne Matewsky cited Bolster, Elm, Estes, George and Paris streets specifically, saying a neighbor on George Street "couldn't let his grandchild into the yard to play" for fear of a rat encounter. Councilor Michael Mc-

Laughlin added that he has received calls from residents on the hills opposite the hospital, like Alpine, Richdale and Rosedale with "concerns of increase in rodent activity over the last few months.' "It is something that we've all received calls on," echoed Councilor Fred Capone.

Councilors also suggested that managing the rodent problem at the level of residential garbage disposal wasn't getting to the root of the problem.

"This is a problem that giving out fliers to residents isn't solving," said Councilor Peter Napolitano. "Keeping barrels closed is not going to do a thing. We're not doing anything physically to curb the rodent population."

"In 62 years of living in the city, I've only seen an excess of rats in the past four years," he continued. "The City is not fixing this problem."

One possible explanation for the rise in rodents is the increase in new construction projects in Everett over the past half-decade. Digging into the earth displaces underground rodent populations, forcing them to the surface.

Slattery mentioned the ordinance proposed by Councilor John McKinnon that requires all contractors to set rat traps around any new construction sites. However, councilors wondered what the oversight process was to ensure that developers were complying with the ordinance. They also suggested that the City should take on baiting and not leave it up to contrac-

"We have to do something," said Councilwoman Rosa DiFlorio. "We have to get rats under control and then we have to educate people what to do. Are we going to wait until a child gets bit before we move on

The Councilwoman suggested transferring money into a special department to take on the situation.

Slattery suggested that Council speak to the Everett Board of Health about initiating a public eradication effort and to research rodent control options in neighboring urban areas.

"Based on the calls we're getting, the common remedies are effective right now," he said. "You're not going to see a [total] absence of rats."

Councilor Capone said that the City could come up with some ways to curb the rodent population that would not cost the city money, such as putting more pressure and oversight on construction sites and increasing dumpster

Overflowing dumpsters are known to attract rodents. Residents in Rome, Italy, are currently dealing with a dumpster overflow crisis, which has led to rats invading people's homes.

The Council asked the Assistant City Solicitor to return at the second meeting in November with a report outlining the City's options for getting to the root of the rodent problem.

existing senior housing and open space. He said there aren't many opportunities to purchase large amounts of land right on Broadway, and this could be a good move.

He said the way it would work is the City could purchase the property, and then put out an RFP in the hopes that community development corporations - such as TND or others - would respond with a project. He said he hopes that they can put an Everett preference on the units in any such development, perhaps as much as 100 percent Everett preference.

"A lot of seniors want to get out of a larger house and stay in the city," he said. "Maybe this could be an opportunity for them."

Councilor Michael Mc-Laughlin said he would support such a project and expenditure, similar to his early support for the TND St. Therese Church project.

"I strongly believe any action we as a community can take to bring affordable housing into our community and help keeping our seniors and middle-income residents living in our community is something I am fully committed to doing," he said. "When I heard of Mayor DeMaria's plan to buy Pope John High School on Broadway and turn it into a fully affordable housing development, I was 100 percent in favor of the idea. Mayor DeMaria can count on my vote for this development."

There are few details, but DeMaria said the opportunity is there now, and he would be bringing the idea around soon.

"It could be significant City dollars spent to preserve it, but I think it would be money well spent to house veterans and seniors," he said.

department merged with the Human Resources department, which took over the role of departmental evaluations. The former director of the department, Omar Easy, has now transitioned to the School Department and is working with the new career academy.

Councilor Capone wanted the Mayor - or someone from his office - to provide an update, but instead he received a response from the City's Director of Human Resources, Lara Ammouri.

City Clerk Sergio Cornelio read her response, which stated that "Departmental evaluations include personnel information" and that "the City Council is not authorized to review personnel documentation.'

Councilor Capone argued that he was not seeking specific personnel information that resulted from the departmental evaluations, but rather an overview of the broader recommendations.

"The request was that the Mayor share department evaluations and the response came from [Human Resources]," he said.

"I'm not looking for personnel files or reviews.

The idea of Organizational Assessment was to enhance efficiency. That's what I'm looking for. What was done to enhance efficiency in that timeframe?"

The Mayor's Chief of Staff Kevin O'Donnell and City Solicitor Colleen Mejia, who were already present to address other agenda items, attempted to respond to the Councilor's inquiries.

"Every single department and department head was evaluated and recommendations were made," said Mejia.

Recommendations cluding merging or eliminating positions, adding or reducing job duties, training personnel, and improving employee relations through mediation and round-table discussions. They also highlighted educating City workers about the Employee Assistance Program and improving the flow of communication between departments.

O'Donnell said that it was hard to say what percentage of the recommendations had been implemented but that they were being implemented over time. Councilor John Hanlon expressed his disappointment in the City's response, saying that he had expected

more specific recommendations, such as the number of fire trucks that the Fire Department needs, for example. Regarding the search for a permanent library director, O'Donnell said that the Mayor aims to "move as quickly as possible," but a communication from Human Resources said that the position has not been posted yet, despite being vacant for almost half a year.

It is being temporarily filled by Assistant City Solicitor Matt Lattanzi.

"The outgoing director has been gone for four months," said Councilor Capone. "The problem is you can't put together a long-term plan unless you have a [permanent] director. A library is too important an asset to leave in a state of limbo."

Councilor Michael Mc-Laughlin expressed frustration at the Mayor's absence, both from the meeting and the conversation.

"The mayor was asked to speak. He blatantly won't come to discuss anything with us," he said. "Do we not have the right for him to come? Mayors Ragucci and Hanlon came to meetings when requested."

crucial first step."

He said that the average number of units created statewide in the 1970s and 1980s was around 30,000 per year. That slowed down in the 1990s to about 10,000 per year. At the same time, the population has grown by more than 600,000 peo-

"When supply fails so much to keep up with the demand, it's no wonder we have this crisis," he said.

"People want to live in this great community and I am proud that here in Everett we have issued the third highest number of new multi-family housing permits in the Commonwealth, many of which are transit oriented developments. However, we must do more," said Mayor Carlo DeMaria. "Gov. Baker's legislation will expedite the construction of 'in-law' apartments and accessory dwelling units, increase density through special permits and will cut parking and dimensional requirements. As a result, I believe we can substantially reduce the number of unsafe, overcrowded illegal units, by creating safe and affordable high quality housing for current and future residents." The event was held at The Pioneer and celebrated Everett's commitment to boosting the production of housing viable for a wide range of incomes, with a particular focus on transit-oriented development to leverage the City's extensive bus network and close proximity to employers in both Everett and Boston. In 2016, Everett became the first community in the Commonwealth outside of Boston to add a dedicated bus lane, leading to a significant reduction in commute times. These efforts earned Everett designation as a Housing Choice community, in recognition for the city's success in adopting best practices and increasing the housing stock by more than 3 percent over the last five years. Local community and business leaders including Antonio Amaya Iraheta of La Comunidad, a nonprofit organization supporting Everett's Latin American community, Marjorie White, President of Everett Co-operative Bank, and Rafael Mares of The Neighborhood Developers, a Chelsea-based community development corporation leading the affordable housing development at St Therese in Everett, joined Mayor DeMaria in endorsing the legislation. "The Housing Choice Initiative is critical for our constituency in the city of Everett," said Amaya. "Across the city there are a lot of illegal units. It is very dangerous living 2 or 3 families in one or two bedroom apartments. The Governor's bill will bring a huge benefit and better condition of living, building more housing units in the City of Everett and across the state."

Said White, "While recent development in Everett has been impressive and provided increased housing for the community, too many opportunities have been missed due to outdated zoning provisions. Modification of local zoning ordinances has been a cumbersome and lengthy process. This legislation will enable local officials to assess their communities' housing needs and enact responsible, thoughtful zoning changes to meet them." Sen. Sal DiDomenico and State Rep. Joe McGonagle - who is vice chair of the House's Housing Committee - both said the bill has support and needs to be passed. "Our seniors are being priced out of the market," said DiDomenico. "We are in a housing crisis and it didn't start yesterday. It started a long time ago. We have an option. We can do more of the same or try to do something. This legislation is before us and we need to try to get something done."

The legislative proposal will enable cities and towns to adopt certain zoning best practices related to housing production by a simple majority vote, rather than the current two-thirds supermajority. While this legislation will lower the voting threshold to change zoning for all communities in the Commonwealth, it does not require cities and towns to make any of these changes. With the proposed simple majority threshold, municipalities that pursue rezoning efforts including those enabling transit-oriented or downtown-oriented new housing, would gain approval if they achieve more than 50 percent of the vote, as opposed to the current super majority of more than 66 percent - typically something that is voted at the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA), Planning Board or the City Council. Massachusetts is currently one of only a few states to require a supermajority to

NEW COORS AD GLORIFIES PROBLEM DRINKING

"The official beer of Saturday morning," is the reprehensible (and that's the only word that comes to mind) tag line for a new TV ad for Coors Light beer that appeared during the football games this past weekend.

The ad depicts two roommates in their early to mid 20s who are preparing breakfast and then sit down on their couch to watch the football games while still clad in their pajamas.

They then break out the Coors Lights while eating breakfast and watching TV.

In our view, this ad represents a new low for a liquor industry that increasingly is targeting a younger and younger audience with messages that essentially equate having a good time with getting drunk.

Right after the Coors ad came one for Budweiser's Platinum Light beer. We did not know why it was called platinum so we looked it up. It turns out that regular Bud Light has an alcohol content of 4.2 percent, but Bud Platinum has an alcohol content of 6 percent.

Here's how Bud describes its Platinum product on its web site: "Platinum is back. And the memories are sure to follow. With a sleek new look and the same smooth, slightly sweet finish, it's time to kick your night off the right way. The Platinum way."

In other words, "kick your night off" is a euphemism for becoming inebriated faster. And what about this line: "And the memories are sure to follow." Really? Drunken memories will be something to remember?

But the liquor industry is not the only one to blame. Universities also are now part and parcel of the problem of drawing-in underage drinkers. As the Wall Street Journal recently reported, a growing number of colleges are striking deals for in-stadium beer sales and sponsorships, in part to combat declining ticket sales.

The opioid crisis rightly has attracted national attention because of the number of overdose deaths attributable to drug abuse. However, the harm to individuals and society in general caused by drugs, legal and illegal, still pales in comparison to the harm caused by alcohol abuse.

It is clear that the big liquor companies, aided and abetted by our universities, are trying to attract young people to their products. Given that the research definitively has shown that drinking before the age of 25 can harm the still-developing brain, and that drinking while in the teen years can increase the risks of alcoholism by five-fold, the time has come for our government to step in and regulate alcohol advertising similar to what occurred in the 1990s when the tide was turned against Big Tobacco, which clearly was targeting a youthful audience with its Joe Camel and other advertising campaigns.

If encouraging "Saturday morning" drinking is considered acceptable in liquor ads, what's next?

LETTER to the Editor

NO MAYOR OR ELECTED OFFICIAL SHOULD EVER BE IN CHARGE OF HIRING/FIRING

Dear Editor,

(A municipality only benefits when the best/most qualified candidates are hired)

I am writing to share my thoughts about how city employees, safety and non-safety, should be hired, and why everything should go through an HR department and the particular city department, not the mayor, council, or any appointee of

There is no requirement that any elected official be trained in HR/Personnel/ City Management or Business. A municipality runs as well as its employees are qualified to run it. No mayor or elected official, even if they have a background in some of the above, has the qualifications to hire every department head. For example, how does a mayor know who would make the best police chief or fire chief if they have never done either job? A police or fire chief taking quick, decisive action in emergencies is not only essential, those decisions could make the difference between life or death for his/her police officers/firefighters.

Even non-emergency services can affect emergency services down the road. One example could be the building official. If the building official and code enforcement are not doing their job, whether due to their own incompetence or being told by a mayor that they must do things a certain way, firefighters and police can be injured or killed when they end up at an incident where a building with multiple code violations has been allowed to exist without consequences. Hiring can be based on who the particular mayor likes or is related to, which is a recipe for disaster. Even if a mayor tries not to be biased in any way, at the end of the day, he/she is most likely not qualified to make the determination. The citizens deserve the best qualified person they can get.

Now, let's talk about how a department head SHOULD be hired. Let's say Bob the Building Official retires or moves on to another city/town and an opening comes up. The position should be advertised far and wide, and applications gathered. Those with minimum qualifications should be given a first interview. That interview panel should consist of a person from HR, A Building Official from a nearby city, A member of the community (to ask questions and give

License Commission rolls back hours of Karma Lounge

By Seth Daniel

The Everett License Commission unanimously rolled back the hours of the Karma Lounge in Glendale Square to midnight based on incidents and problems with the Lounge that have been ongoing.

The discussion, however, did not specifically include the murder that took place outside the Lounge last week by patrons of the establishment, as that is an ongoing police investigation. While it might have figured in as a point of reference, most of the issues discussed Monday night revolved around the changing nature of the business.

"I simply think they've moved away from the business plan they presented to us and I'd like to suggest we will scale their hours back to midnight with not bottle service at all," said Commissioner Phil Arloro. "I'd like to bring them keep them at midnight until they can show us they've gone back to the Lounge environment they promised." Chair Phil Antonelli put forward the plan to roll back the hours to midnight at the Lounge, eliminate bottle service, get quarterly reports on alcohol sales, finish up their occupancy permit issues and provide a new security plan.

The Lounge came in in the summer of 2018 with plans to create a Hookah Lounge with a relaxed environment that included mostly tobacco sales, but also a liquor license. While many on the Commission were excited about the concept, on Monday they said that the ownership has strayed from that plan and has now created a night club environment.

"The business plan has not been met," said Antonelli. "It's getting worse... You guys know it was going in a different direction. We see it with incident that have happened there... We're not going to have a night club. Everett is a bedroom community and it's not a place for a nightclub...We're not here to talk about what happened last week. We're here because of the way the business is being run. We're been talking with you for the past year. The business plan you presented isn't being fulfilled. We said no bottle service and it's still being promoted. We said no promotion of DJs and that's happening still. It's habitual. Maybe the recent incident didn't spur this whether the decision was made based on the murder. Members said it was not about that incident, but about a long history of problems even before that.

Rotondo said his client planned to work with the nual renewal deadline on

Dec. 31. •Tres Gatos was also before the Board again, after appearing there last July for problems with the patio and patrons congregating outside.

Chef Ozzie appeared due to the fact that there have been noise complaints about activity on Sunday night in particular. Also, a man was arrested in August for drunk driving, and said the last place he drank was Tres Gatos. Those two matters brought Ozzie back before the Board Monday

Ozzie had voluntarily rolled back his hours in July to try to curb the problem.

"I don't see anything he said. "You are commerthat says to me you're concial, but there are neighbors trolling the business," said Arloro.

Councilor McLaughlin testified that he has gotten calls from neighbors, and they have requested that the hours be rolled back on Sundays.

Chair Antonelli proposed a closing of 11 p.m. on Sundays, and midnight every other day. There will be no patio allowed any longer either.

It was approved.

ROSA DIFLORIO | CITY COUNCILOR WARD 5

By Laura Plummer

At its meeting on Monday, September 23, Council heard a presentation by Deborah Fallon, the founder of Portal to Hope, in which she honored community leaders and elected officials that have championed the cause of ending domestic violence.

Founded in 1996, Portal to Hope is a nonprofit organization serving survivors of domestic violence, sexual assault and stalking in Everett and surrounding cities. In 1998, it partnered with the City of Everett and the Everett Police Department to form EVAPorate Violence, a pioneering law enforcement response team that has garnered national acclaim. EVAPorate Violence trains law enforcement officials to swiftly and efficiently deal with issues of domestic violence and stalking. It offers legal aid and extended shelter stays to those fleeing family violence, and hosts violence prevention activities. EVAPorate Violence has been praised nationally and serves as a model for other communities to follow

Fallon gave an impassioned update about the EVAPorate Violence initia-

"[EVAPorate Violence] has served over 5,000 people since its inception in 1998. Over 2,300 of those cases involved minor children," she said. "We couldn't do it without the support of you all as our elected officials and community leaders. I cannot thank you enough for what you've done for us."

Fallon identified four individuals in the community who had each contributed more than two decades of service to domestic violence prevention and intervention. She presented Mayor Dave Ragucci, one of the originators of the EVAPorate Violence program; Mayor Carlo De-Maria; Police Chief Steven Mazzie; and Joanne DeMato with citations for their sustained efforts in ending the scourge of intimate partner violence in Everett.

She cited the dedication of these individuals in making EVAPorate Violence "the leading law enforcement program of its kind, not just in Everett but in the country."

Police Chief Mazzie reflected on the department's partnership twenty-year with Portal to Hope.

"Everything they do is phenomenal. It's not fun work. There's a lot that goes on behind the scenes," he said. "We [officers] see domestic violence all too often, but they make our job a little easier."

Mayor Carlo DeMaria accepted his citation with a touching anecdote regarding his second cousin, Ersilia Cataldo Matarazzo.

"I lost my cousin this year to domestic violence. She was killed by her husband. No one in our family knew [he was violent]," he said. "It's up to us to work with our friends to ask the questions that might be uncomfortable, to get the facts."

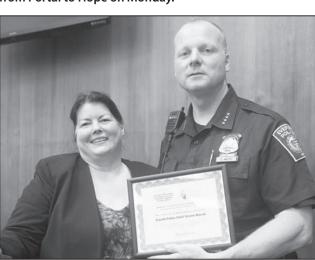

The month of October is National Domestic Violence Awareness Month and Fallon urged the community to come out to support Portal to Hope.

"People are quick to reach out to us in times of tragedy, but we need the help all the time, every day," she said, emphasizing that violence prevention is just as important as intervention. "We challenge you to come on board and get to know the work we do, to walk alongside survivors. We don't want to just remember survivors when they're no longer with us."

On Saturday, Sept. 28, Everett Kiwanis hosted a 5K walk in honor of Ersilia Cataldo Matarazzo, a well-known Everett resident who was murdered by her estranged husband last December. The walk was an overwhelming success and gave momentum to the cause of Portal to Hope in eliminating domestic violence in the city.

Joanne DeMato was recognized for 20 years of service from Portal to Hope on Monday.

Chief Mazzie was presented with an award for 20 years of service in the Everett community.

Mayor Carlo DeMaria was acknowledged by Portal to Hope on Monday night.

Next week's interactive theater project makes you the star of the show

Next week Curious Experience Design will premiere Join the Resistance, an interactive theater experience at the Bone Up Brewing taproom. The story being told is one of cyberpunk science fiction, but the experience is one that invites the adult audience to engage in imaginative play.

In the taproom, participants will be stepping into a dystopian future where a government called The Doric Order holds absolute power. Participants, alongside actors playing fictional characters, will be charged with helping the resistance by solving puzzles, running missions, and collaborating with other players to find out which of the actors is the traitor in their midst.

Daud Alzayer, writer and director of this show says of the project, "One of the central goals of my creative work is give everyone, including adults, an opportunity to play make-believe. We spend a lot of time and money on passive entertainment like movies, but experiences like these give you a chance to be in the middle of the action and even to play a leading role if you choose. That is something we get to enjoy as kids, but projects like this give us a chance to recapture that magic as adults."

Everett bests Brockton, 36-21

Clerveaux powers the Tide with two TDs

The matchup of two of the state's most storied programs lived up to its billing as Everett and Brockton waged a furious offensive battle on a warm and sunny fall afternoon.

In the end, it was sophomore running back Jaden Clerveaux and the Crimson Tide who held the edge with a hard-earned 36-21 victory Saturday at Everett Memorial Stadium.

Clerveaux, who was coming off a 3-TD performance in a win over St. John's (Shrewsbury), had another huge day with 185 yards rushing and two TDs to help Everett wear down the Boxers' defense.

"Jaden is growing upon us and this is a good thing," said Everett head coach Theluxon Pierre about Clerveaux's emergence. "We needed him to advance from his last game and he has."

Junior defensive back

Brandon Gibbs made the defensive play of the game with an interception deep in Brockton territory. Tyrese Baptiste turned the INT in to six points to give Everett a lead (22-21) it would never relinquish.

Junior quarterback Duke Doherty was again impressive at the helm of the offense, connecting with Baptiste for a 21-yard touchdown. Junior running back Jahsheem Rivera completed Everett's run of three unanswered touchdowns with a 2-yard score.

Everett (3-1) has won three consecutive games following a season-opening loss to Springfield Central. Everett has averaged 32 points per game in its wins over Xaverian, St. John's, and Brockton.

Pierre was pleased with his team's effort, especially in the second half when the Everett defense kept Brockton's offense off the scoreboard. "I thought Brandon played a very good game," said Pierre. "I thought our defensive line played an excellent game."

Everett gets in to its schedule against Greater Boston League opponents Friday (5 p.m.) against Medford.

"I'm looking forward to the game and how our defense responds after a tough first half (against Brockton)," said Pierre.

Pierre said he hopes to continue the series with Brockton.

"To me, I'm always going to say that Everett football is never afraid of the competition and I always feel the top teams in the state should play each other because it makes football better in the state overall," said Pierre. "You want to play the top teams and see where you stand and it's a good test for the playoffs. And the players on both teams want to compete against each other. Games like this help both teams."

Although the Everett High boys and girls cross country teams fell short in last week's meet with Medford, EHS head coach Brendan Hahesy was pleased with the teams' performances."We had a very good day in our meet versus Medford," said Hahesy. "While both the boys and girls lost the meet, every athlete ran their personal record (PR) time on our home course."Senior Christian Simeon finished in 28th place with a time of 23:24, which represented an improvement of 37 seconds over his previous fastest

Senior Tony Tang finished 21st with a clocking of 20:13, which was an improvement of 1:57 in his PR.Senior Jacob Jackson finished in 20th place in 20:12, which was 1:43 faster than his previous PR.Senior Brandon Vaquerano finished ninth with a time of 17:55, which set a new PR by eight seconds. #### EVERETT COMMEMORATES NATIONAL GOLD STAR MOTHER'S AND FAMILY DAY

Hundreds of Everett residents turned out this past Sunday joining Mayor Carlo DeMaria and the Office of Veteran's Affairs as they commemorated National Gold Star Mother's and Family Day by rededicating the Gold Star Pavilion at Glenwood Cemetery and presenting the Massachusetts Medals of Liberty to three Everett Families.

Mayor DeMaria said, 'Today the families of these three brave men were given the Medal of Liberty Award. We as a country and as a community are forever in debt to these Gold Star Families as they have suffered a lifetime of unfilled memories and broken hearts and today's solemn service was just a small gesture of our respect and admiration. We thank you, we honor you, and you are, and will always remain, our Everett family."

U.S. Army Sergeant Joseph Riley, U.S. Army

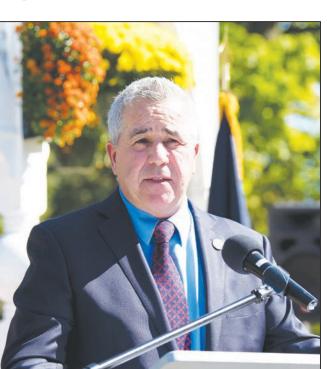

Sergeant David Kuhns and USMC Lance Corporal James Taurisano gave their lives on the battlefield in service to the country. Sergeant Riley passed away during the Korean War and Sergeant Kuhns and Lance Corporal Taurisano, were both KIA during the Vietnam War.

Retired Brigadier General Paul Landry and Lt. Colonel Dana Sanders-Udo of the Army National Guard presented the Medal of Liberty to the three Everett families. National Gold Star Mother's and Family's Day is held annually on the last Sunday in September.

State Rep. Joe McGonagle expressed his gratitude to those who had served and given the ultimate sacrifice.

Mayor honors Gold Star families with ceremony at newly renovated Gold Star Pavilion

The following is the speech Mayor Carlo De-Maria gave at the Gold Star ceremony.

Today what stands in front of you is a pavilion honoring all of our Gold Star families. The generation that came before us built this beautiful memorial as a place to reflect and remember those who have given the ultimate sacrifice. Like an aging warrior this pavilion began to lose its luster, it's paint began to peel, the roof began to leak, and it's once strong wood began to rot. I noticed this and felt sad to see this old warrior so neglected. So I resolved to once again honor these families and restore this pavilion.

Last summer, we began work. Our Faculties Department replaced rotted wood, installed a new roof, put new railings on with beautiful bead board and installed new benches. Department of Public Works restored the walkways, installed a new granite floor, built new stairs and put on the finishing touches including new sod and a new sprinkler system.

I am so gratified that we have brought the shine back to this Gold Star Pavilion.

We are gathered here to honor our own, U.S. Army Sargent Joseph Riley, U.S. Army Sergeant David Kuhn, and USMC Lance Corporal James Taurisano and their respective Gold Star Families. They represent the best we have as all three of these Everett Heroes have given their lives so that we can enjoy the freedoms and the democracy of this great country. We honor these hero's in many ways by memorials, by medals and by honoring their families. We are forever grateful to those who made the ultimate sacrifice and to their Gold Star families who have given so much.

Army Sgt. Joseph F. Riley joined the military five days after he turned seventeen years old on May 13, 1949. He served in the infantry and just five months after the Korean War began he was listed as "missing in action" on November 28, 1950-he was 18 years old.

On Jan. 15, 1954, Sgt. Riley's mom, Margaret Riley was notified in a Department of the Army Official Correspondence that "since your son, Sgt. Joseph F. Riley was reported missing in action .....the Department of the Army has entertained the hope that he survived and that information would be received dispelling the uncertainty surrounding his absence....and in view of the lapse in time without information to support a continued presumption of survival, the Department of the Army must determine such absence by a presumptive finding of death...."

I ask all of you, who among us would welcome that news...not a one I dare say....

Marine Lance Corporal James "Jimmy" V. Taurisano joined the military right out of Everett High School on Sept. 1, 1964 at the age of 18. He enlisted by way of the "buddy system" -his buddy being his foster brother Richard Stratton. Both Jimmy and Rich were sent to Vietnam, Jimmy serving with the 1st Marine Division and Rich serving with the 2nd Marine Division. Tragically, United States Marine Corp Lance Corporal James Taurisano was "killed in action" in the vicinity of the "Danang Republic of Vietnam as a result of multiple fragmentation wounds of both legs and buttocks sustained on Jan. 19, 1966 from an unknown explosive device while on patrol." We are so very blessed to have here with us today, his buddy and foster brother, United States Marine Corp Sergeant Richard Stratton who will be accepting the Medal of Liberty on behalf of his brother as well as speak on behalf of our Gold Star Families here with us.

Sergeant David A. Kuhns grew up on Bucknam Street and was 20 years old when he joined the United States Army on June 29, 1965. His first two tours of duty in Vietnam, earned him a Combat Infantry Badge, a Parachute Badge, a Purple Heart, the Vietnam Service Medal and a National Defense Service Medal. Tragically, while Sgt. Kuhns was serving his third tour of duty in Vietnam, he was "Killed in Action" on Oct. 3, 1969.

History tells us that unlike Word War II, the Korean War and especially the Vietnam War were not 'popular" wars. There were no "ticker tape parades" to pay tribute to our returning heroes and no long military processions to mourn our soldiers lost ....

We as a community are forever in debt to these Gold Star Families as they have suffered a lifetime of unfilled memories and broken hearts and today's solemn service is just a small gesture of our respect and admiration -we thank you, we honor you and you are and will always remain our Everett Family.

CHA TO HOST DAY OF FREE HEALTH SCREENINGS FOR VULNERABLE WOMEN

Cambridge Health Alliance (CHA), an academic community health system serving Cambridge, Somerville, and Boston's metro-north region, will once again host See Test & Treat, a day of free health screenings for uninsured and underinsured women on Saturday, October 26. The event will be held at CHA Cambridge Hospital (1493 Cambridge Street, Cambridge) from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. and is intended for women, transmen and non-binary people, ages 21-65, who lack health insurance and access to quality care.

See, Test & Treat is a national program sponsored by the College of American Pathologists Foundation to offer uninsured and under-insured people the opportunity to get important health screenings and information. In a single day, participants receive a pelvic and clinical breast exam, a Pap test with same-day results, a screening mammogram with prompt results, a connection to follow-up care, interpretive services, translated educational materials, health and wellness information, and a healthy snack. Child activities are provided to further reduce barriers to getting these important tests.

"See, Test and Treat embodies CHA's mission of caring for everyone, regardless of their ability to pay, immigration status or gender identity," said Rebecca Osgood, MD, chief of pathology, who is spearheading the event at CHA. "The most important piece of all of the free care that we provide is that it could possibly save lives. We are excited to build on the success of last year's event where we were able to serve 60+ women. Most of them had no insurance and others had such limited insurance it created a barrier for them to receive care."

More than 100 CHA staff, including pathologists, OBGYN providers, cytologists and radiologists, are volunteering their time to make See, Test and Treat possible.

In addition to the screenings, the day will be filled with other fun activities including a range of health education programs focused on nutrition, breast self-exams, and HIV screening and counseling. See, Test and Treat at CHA will also have a health fair component filled with mental health resources, smoking cessation information, colon cancer screenings, oral health information and much more.

To learn more about the event on October 26, visit www.challiance.org/community/see-test-treat or send an email to sprimeau@challiance.org.

BUCKLEY JOINED CITY-WIDE SERVICE DURING ORIENTATION AT BELMONT UNIVERSITY

Casey Buckley, an Everett native, joined 2,000 other new Belmont University freshman and transfer students during Towering Traditions orientation this year for SERVE, an opportunity to complete community service together throughout the greater Nashville area.

Many of the local metro schools, Nashville General Hospital at Meharry, Legacy Mission Village and nearly 50 other local organizations received aid from Belmont students during the annual Welcome Week program. Each year, new students at Belmont University are provided with the opportunity to volunteer their time and dive into the special community of Nashville with more than 200 upperclassmen student leaders accompanying them. Students spent the day helping with tasks such as organizing hospital supplies, applying fresh paint to buildings and picking up trash in multiple areas.

CJ Student leader Waligurski said one of the most rewarding things about guiding students through their first week of college is seeing their transition. "At the beginning, all of them enter nervous and don't know each other. But at one point, I was able to just sit back and watch. It was the coolest thing to see how they were talking with each other and encouraging each other," he explained. "It is such a special opportunity to see how this day of service builds strong connections between new students."

Before departing for their service sites, Belmont University President Dr. Bob Fisher and Nashville Mayor David Briley addressed the group. As an institution committed to serving others, both speakers led into the meaning of community service as it pertains to Nashville and more specifically, Belmont.

"As Nashville has grown and changed, one thing remains consistent," said Briley. "Folks here want to take care of each other. We are counting on you to continue that tradition. Today, we start off in that endeavor."

Freshman Jillian Mc-Nabb spent her day with Legacy Mission Village and Nashville Diaper Connection packaging diapers to be given away and shared. "It's so cool that we are given the opportunity to have fun while getting to know our peers and doing important work," she said.

Journey After School Program Director Tim Mwizerwa from Legacy Mission Village shared, "We need a large number of qualified volunteers to accomplish our mission. Our partnership with Belmont has really been an incredible resource for us and for the students we serve. We love our Belmont volunteers."

About Belmont Univer-

Nationally ranked and consistently recognized as a "Most Innovative" university by U.S. News & World Report, Belmont University is home to nearly 8,500 students who come from every state and more than 36 countries. Committed to being a leader among teaching universities, Belmont brings together the best of liberal arts and professional education in a Christian community of learning and service. The University's purpose is to help students explore their passions and develop their talents to meet the world's needs. With more than 95 areas of undergraduate study, more than 25 master's programs and five doctoral degrees, there is no limit to the ways Belmont University can expand an individual's horizon. #### 5K WALK EVENT TO BENEFIT THE ERSILIA CATALDO MATARAZZO MEMORIAL FUND

A 5K Walk was held on Saturday, Sept. 28, to benefit the Ersilia Cataldo Matarazzo Memorial Fund. The Kiwanis Club of Everett collaborated with the City of Everett and Ersilia's children, Carmine, Amata, and Giuseppe to bring the community together for the walk. Ersilia Cataldo Matarazzo tragically lost her life last December in an act of domestic violence. The walk raised awareness for domestic violence and the impact it has on victims

Carmine Matarazzo spoke about his mother, Ersilia.

Father Olmes Milani, of St.

Anthony's Church, offered a prayer in memory of Ersilia

Cataldo Matarazzo. Ersilia

Mayor Carlo DeMaria spoke of Ersilia Cataldo Matarazzo's generosity and compas-

Marlene Zizza of the Kiwanis Club remembered her

Jim Mitchell of the Kiwanis Club remembered his friend and colleague, Ersilia Cataldo Matarazzo.

Amata Matarazzo shared a personal journal entry from her mother, Ersilia. It was a moment that moved nearly everyone to tears as Brooklyn LaMonica and Emma Perry walked in memory of Ersilia Cataldo Matarazzo.

Ersilia's sister, Amy Buscanio, joined their parents, Elvira and Giuseppe, on the stage.

Interim Supt. Janice Gauthier and Assistant Supt. Kevin Shaw participated in the walk on Saturday.

Local elected officials and candidates participated in the walk in memory of Ersilia Cataldo Matarazzo. (L-R) State Sen. Sal DiDomenico, John Burley, Councilor Michael McLaughlin, Roger Thistle, Lisa Dell Isola, Council President Rich Dell Isola, Councilor Michael Marchese, School Committeeman Frank Parker, and Clerk Sergio Cornelio.
