Licensing Commission reviews four business permits at monthly meeting

By Laura Plummer

The City's Licensing Commission met on Tuesday, April 16, at City Hall to review the licenses of four local dining and nightlife establishments.

On the agenda were La Finca Restaurant at 37 Norwood St., Everett Bar & Grill at 206 Ferry St., Winners Sports Bar & Grill at 361 Ferry St. and Karma Lounge Boston at 355 Ferry St.

The businesses appearing before the Commission on the April 16 had been summoned for a variety of violations.

•The owners of La Finca Restaurant heard from the Commission that a woman had been charged with operating under the influence when, on March 18, she left La Finca heavily intoxicated and got into a car accident. The owners received a verbal warning about the dangers of overserving and will also receive a written warning.

•The owners of Everett Bar & Grill (Divas Lounge) appeared to answer to an allegation of serving alcohol to minors. In the early hours of Monday, April 8, police ar-

Councilors approve City's changes to administrative code

By Laura Plummer

The City Council debated long into the night on Monday, April 22, during a three-and-a-half hour meeting while torrential rains buffeted City Hall. The key agenda item was the long-awaited vote on the City's administrative code, which principally divided Councilors over the language regarding the Library Board of Trustees (LBoT) – eventually approving the change in a 6-4 vote.

The Council was due to hold a vote on the administration's proposed changes to the City's Administrative Code, and the meetings leading up to the vote made it clear that the issue would be contentious and divisive. There had been significant pushback from community members, library trustees and Councilors on the reduced role of the LBoT implicit in the new language. The changes had been proposed in accordance with Massachusetts State Law and also the last will and testament of the library's founder, Frederick E. Parlin.

The new language regarding the LBoT narrows the scope of its duties to the following:

- The City would take over the human resources duties of the LBoT;
- the City Treasurer would become the default treasurer of the LBoT;
- the LBoT would go from overseeing the whole library system to overseeing the management of the trust left by founder;
- and the trust would be used to purchase items benefiting the library but for no

Heidi Orellana Ramos and Cindy Nguyen put the finishing touches on their landscape design for what they hope will be a new rain garden at the end of Wyllis Avenue near their school, the Maddie English. They were two of 10 students that spend spring break at school designing the rain garden. They will continue their work every Tuesday afternoon, with the hope of improving the space at the end of the year – a space that was destroyed by National Grid this year during the lockout.

Beautify, restore and create Maddie English students spend break designing rain garden

By Seth Daniel

For the school spring break last week, some students went to Florida, while others traveled to destinations inside the state.

However, one group of dedicated eighth graders from the Madeleine English School went to Wyllis Avenue – a dead-end street near their school that had been destroyed by National Grid during this year's worker lockout.

Their mission – to beautify, restore and create a rain garden to prevent flooding.

Artist Carolyn Lewenberg led the grant-funded project, assisted by science teacher Bruce Jaffe, so that 10 students from the Maddie could design a new park/rain garden for the end of Wyllis Avenue.

Each day during school break, students reported to the science room and examined maps and used design tools to draw out their preferences for the small park that runs between the road and the Northern Strand Community Trail.

Lewenberg and Principal Michael McLucas said the kids were very enthusiastic about the project all week, and their work will continue each Tuesday afternoon regarding the design.

"It is very exciting and the kids have really taken the lead on this during the break," said Lewenberg on Friday morning.

"The end of Wyllis Ave always floods and always has puddles there when it rains," said Philip Fonseca. "The rain garden is going to collect all the water and absorb it to be reused by the plants we want to put there."

Added Lamiah Wyzard, "In the park, we'll make it very pretty and it will be filled with stuff so when people walk by they can stop and check it out. Whether they are coming from Malden or going from Everett, it will be a welcome spot for them to stop....That area really got destroyed. We're going to try our best to

Mayor, McLaughlin look to settle Wellness Center questions

By Laura Plummer

City Councilors aired out some differences with the administration on the ongoing Wellness Center issue last Tuesday, April 17, with the situation taking a giant step downward in terms of intensity.

Councilor Michael McLaughlin had been invited with City Solicitor Colleen Mejia to speak about a number of items he sponsored, all having to do with the City's Health and Wellness Center administration.

Councilor McLaughlin had previously submitted to the administration a list of 41 questions regarding the hiring, management and oversight practices of the Everett Community Health and Wellness Center, after it was discovered earlier this year that its director had fabricated her credentials and was forced to resign.

On Tuesday, April 17, the Ways & Means Committee of the Council met at City Hall. The Committee was comprised of Councilors Michael Marchese, Wayne Matewsky, John McKinnon and Stephen Simonelli.

The City had endeavored to respond to Councilor McLaughlin's questions in writing and on Tuesday he had hoped that Mayor Carlo DeMaria and others in his administration would be present to elaborate on their written answers.

Councilor McLaughlin explained to the committee that he had personally been in touch with the mayor, who was unable to attend the committee meeting. However, Councilor McLaughlin said that the mayor had been open to continuing the conversation with him in private and was hopeful that his questions would finally be addressed sufficiently.

"[The mayor] is going to School Committee approves final payment to Foresteire

By Seth Daniel

The School Committee has approved a final payment to former Supt. Fred Foresteire for unused vacation days, estimated at around $250,000, and the City is in the process of making that payment to him this week.

The payment is the second payment of around $450,000 that the School Committee said it owed Foresteire for unused vacation time – a stipulation in his contract that allowed him to rollover unused vacation days and also a stipulation that some Committee members have said they now greatly regret.

Last Tuesday, the Committee voted to approve the final payment to Foresteire, which had been scheduled and accounted for in the current budget.

City officials said they would be processing the payment on Thursday, but an exact amount was not specified. It is estimated to be around $250,000 as Foresteire already received approximately $200,000 last year.

Earlier this month, School Committeeman Bernie D'Onofrio moved to have the payment analyzed by School Committee Attorney Robert Galvin. The matter went into the Legal Committee for study.

However, Chair Tom Abruzzese said Foresteire's attorney, Frank Mondano, indicated that they wished to have their money immediately. They also said that if the Committee didn't pay, they could be on the hook for triple damages, Abruzzese said.

"As upset as I am about this, we've already agreed to pay this," he said. "It's in the budget. We tried to put it in

Contract Matters

Administrators' pacts have vacation, sick time accumulation

By Seth Daniel

Two recent contracts for Everett Public School administrators have similar unprecedented, unlimited vacation and sick time accumulation that were contained in former Supt. Fred Foresteire's contract – stipulations that several School Committee members condemned only a few weeks ago.

Contracts for Assistant Supt. Kevin Shaw (approved this past March 4) and Assistant Supt. Charlie Obremski (approved in 2015) both include those very same stipulations allowing them to accumulate vacation and sick days year after year.

That same stipulation has now cost the Everett Public Schools more than $400,000 over the last two years as Foresteire has moved to redeem

School Committee Chair

Tom Abruzzese said when Foresteire's issue came up last year, he said former School Committee Attorney Spencer Tobin indicated there was only one other contract with such stipulations – and that one was for the late Lona DeFeo.

"When it was presented to us at the time the superintendent brought this up a year ago in May, I specifically asked if there was anywhere else in the School Department where we were going to find this situation," he said. "I was told by then-Counsel Attorney Tobin that the only person was Lona DeFeo. She has passed away since then. Kevin Shaw did get an extension, but my understanding is he doesn't have a lot of time...That can't go forward. My understanding is he didn't have that many vacation days...Charlie is a

School Committee investigation expected to be delivered next week

By Seth Daniel

The School Committee's independent investigation of the alleged sexual harassment by former Supt. Fred Foresteire is expected to be delivered in writing next week – and it appears that it will be a public document.

Attorney Regina Ryan has been running an independent investigation of the sexual harassment claims against Foresteire since last December, when the School Committee brought her on to do an exhaustive look at the claims. In the interim, she has interviewed scores of victims, witnesses and Foresteire as well.

For the last several weeks, there has been some concern that the document might be classified as "not discoverable," meaning that the public would not be able to see the conclusions and findings within that investigative report.

However, this week School

Committee Chair Tom Abruzzese said he expects the report sometime next week, and he has been informed by Committee Attorney Robert Galvin that it will be a public document – despite pending litigation and criminal charges.

"It should be coming by next week I'm told," he said. "My understanding is if it's written out, it's going to be a public document. We had wondered if it might be an oral report given to us in Ex-

Everett Cultural Council celebrates grant recipients

The Everett Cultural Council will be holding a reception to celebrate this year's grant recipients for the cultural council grants. The council funded 32 separate projects for this year's grant cycle, totaling more than $17,500 for arts, humanities, and science-based programs for the benefit of Everett residents.

Among the programs funded by the council this year are numerous library programs covering a wide range of subjects, a community art show called the Everett Community Art Walk that will be on display all across the city, a program to support the well-being of local homeless children with art music and play therapy, and the premiere of a cutting edge immersive theater project called "Join the Resistance!"

"One thing is for sure," says Council Chair Karyn Alzayer, "The library is going to have some fantastic programming over the next year, and you're not going to want to miss it."

Members of the community are invited to come meet our grant recipients at our reception on Thursday, May 9, from 5-7PM at Village Bar and Grill on Norman Street.

the Legal Committee to be reviewed and we got a call from Attorney Frank Mondano that they wanted the money. He said if we do not pay, we would be subject to triple damages, which means we'd be open to paying triple the amount plus attorney fees. You have to swallow hard in a situation like this and move on."

He also stipulated that the payment was in the current budget as a line item and was planned by the Committee. He specified that everyone on the Committee approved that Budget, as did the City Council.

"Not only did every School Committee member approve it, but the budget went before the City Council and no one questioned that either," he said. "I know some want to deflect now, but everyone is aware of it and everyone approved it."

Foresteire's payment is expected to be fully paid by the end of this week.

work with me to answer questions in more detail," he said. "I'm happy we've been able to come to the table with the administration."

Mejia mentioned that she had been unable to go into more depth on some of her written responses to Councilor McLaughlin's questions due to a pending claim against the City regarding the Wellness Center that was filed a month and a half ago.

"We answered the questions as best as we could," said Mejia. "We're being as transparent as we can be legally."

Councilor Wayne Matewsky, who had previously implied that Councilor McLaughlin's questions constituted bullying, again raised his opposition to the inquiry, stating, "This has to be put to an end."

"Forty-one questions are quite extensive. These are frivolous. You've covered every aspect of the Wellness Center," he said. "Nobody's perfect. There [are] occasions when people might not do a good job. You're going to find something wrong with every department with this City."

At the same time, Councilor Matewsky threw his support behind the Wellness Center.

"I have nothing but compliments on this Wellness Center. It's a money-making venture for the community," he said. "The people I talk to really like this place. The Wellness Center is a success."

Mejia echoed Councilor Matewsky.

"[The Wellness Center] generates hundreds of thousands of dollars," she said, suggesting that Councilor McLaughlin's line of inquiry was tantamount to "trying to give the City a black eye."

Councilor McLaughlin doubled down on the legitimacy of his questions.

"They're not frivolous," he stated emphatically.

Councilor Marchese supported his colleague, stating that he would still like the administration to appear before the council in order to elaborate on their answers to the 41 questions.

Councilor McKinnon agreed, saying, "The mayor needs to be here to answer these questions one by one."

Councilor Matewsky had some advice for Councilor McLaughlin.

"If you're going to put it back on the agenda, keep it simple," he said. "I don't appreciate the time I have to put in. We all have lives. We can't be doing frivolous things."

The matter was referred back to sponsor at Councilor McLaughlin's request, and it has been indicated that he and the mayor will work out the answers to the questions amenably.

rested a man for sexual assault who claimed he had been drinking at Divas, despite being underage. The owners received a written warning and said that they were stepping up both their security and their surveillance in order to be sure that all patrons who say they were in the bar were actually there, and to ensure that all patrons are being properly carded by waitstaff.

•Winners Sports Bar & Grill and Karma Lounge Boston, which occupy two floors of the same building, were summoned to answer to a trash complaint filed by the Everett Fire Department. According to the Fire Department, the establishments had allowed waste to pile up outside of their location in such a way as to block egresses, creating a fire hazard. The Department also alleged that the businesses didn't have efficient grease disposal and that greased walkways could result in injuries. The Commission told the businesses that their hours would be rolled back to 10 p.m. effective immediately until it could be established that they have entered into a daily trash pick-up contract.

Chairman Phil Antonelli said he wanted to see better behavior on the part of the businesses present, mentioning that police resources were already spread thin with the activity associated with the imminent casino opening.

"The summer's coming. We don't need any type of problems," he said. "We can't be utilizing [police] resources running to these bars. We don't need anyone getting hurt or getting in accidents."

In addition to the above appearances, the Texas Roadhouse at 31 Mystic View Rd. appeared to apply for a change of beneficial interest. The change affects the corporate offices only and doesn't impact operations locally or in the state. It was approved by the ABCC and was unanimously approved by the Licensing Commission.

According to its website, person that takes vacation. I would assume, and it might be to my detriment, those vacation days won't be an issue... It's obviously nothing like former Supt. Foresteire."

School Committee member Frank Parker, who was chair when Obremski's contract was approved, said he wasn't as concerned about these two contracts.

"These are the only two contracts; this was not part of Mrs. Gauthier's interim superintendent contract," he said. "Am I concerned about it – no. We're talking two different people – guys that take vacation with their families. These are three-year contracts and they don't have that evergreen rollover like the former superintendent did. We were in a unique situation with this gentleman (Foresteire) that didn't utilize his vacation time."

He said in doing some research, he learned that a similar thing happened in the Randolph Public Schools, where a former superintendent was able to leave with $575,000 in vacation buy-back.

"The next superintendent will not have an evergreen clause in his or her contract," he said. "It will be 2019 language and not 1989 language."

In Obremski's 2015 contract, he was given 25 vacation days per year, and those days can be rolled over year after year and then redeemed for cash – just as Foresteire did.

"Upon retirement, resignation or death, the Assistant Superintendent of Business Affairs and Pupil Personnel Services, or his estate, will be paid for unused vacation days at the per diem rate then in effect," read the contract.

It wasn't certain by press time how many days Obremski had accumulated in his career – as the City was still working to calculate that information.

the License Commission is "charged with the responsibility of issuing licenses and enforcing rules, regulations, local ordinances, and state laws pertaining to the sale of alcoholic beverages; the Licensing Commission shall promulgate all regulations necessary for the application local ordinance and state law."

Chair Antonelli said that businesses can be called for license review if a complaint is submitted by a community member or by law enforcement. Business owners then have to appear before the commission at their regular monthly meeting to defend their license.

If a business is found to be in violation of their license, there is an established protocol of steps that are taken. First is a verbal warning, followed by a written warning. The third violation results in a license being suspended for a certain period of time and, finally, a business can have its licensed fully revoked.

That contract, however, came well before the costly situation with Foresteire was revealed last year.

The contract with Shaw was just approved in March of this year, and it does also include the ability to accumulate vacation and sick days. That luxury, however, is stipulated to end with Shaw's current contract in 2022.

"The Committee and the Assistant Superintendent agree that the ability to accumulate unused vacation days without the approval of the Committee will not be incorporated into any future agreements or extensions and will end at the conclusion of the term of this agreement," read Shaw's contract.

Obremski's contract runs through June 30, 2022 – a five-year deal.

Shaw's contract is a three-year deal that also expires on June 30, 2022.

ecutive Session, but I am told it will be a written report. If it's written, it is discoverable. My understanding is it will be a written report."

Many questions abound as to what kind of ethical and legal implications that brings up, as she was long into her investigation when the current criminal charges were filed against Foresteire.

If the report is made public, there is some question about what might happen if that report uncovers additional, potential criminal charges.

Abruzzese said since they hired her and she began her investigation before the criminal charges were filed, that could make a difference in it being public.

other purpose.

Prior to holding the vote, those in opposition pleaded their case as to why the Council should reject the admin code changes outright. (There wasn't an option to reject only part of the proposed changes.)

Councilors, as well as community members, spoke again in opposition, espousing an "If it's not broke, don't fix it" mentality.

Councilor Michael McLaughlin said he would have to reject the changes to the admin code based on its language referring to the LBoT.

"This is an up or down vote. I support a lot of what's in this document, but I can't support changes that would affect our libraries that have run for decades," he said. "Not on my watch."

Councilor Fred Capone echoed his colleague's sentiments.

"The Board of Trustees has been in place for 139 years," he said. "There is absolutely no reason to change this. They're doing a stellar job."

Those in favor of the new admin code spoke in support of the changes to the library language.

"Nobody should be taking this personally," said Councilor Rosa DiFlorio. "I'm a checks and balances person. If something works 80 percent and doesn't work the other 20 percent, then you vote for it."

Councilor John Hanlon originally thought he could approve just part of the admin code, which he had worked laboriously to amend, before being told that it was an up or down vote.

"I put tons of hours into that code, and I have to stand by the work that I did on it," he said.

Councilor Anthony DiPier-

ro also spoke in defense of the changes to the admin code, specifically the language redefining the duties of the LBoT.

"I was surprised to learn that [the LBoT doesn't] function under an experienced and trained Human Resources department like the rest of the City does," he said.

Ultimately, six Councilors (Dell Isola, DiFlorio, DiPierro, Hanlon, Matewsky and Simonelli) voted for the new administrative code while four (Councilors Capone, Marchese, McLaughlin and Napolitano) voted against it.

Councilor McKinnon was absent.

According to Assistant City Solicitor Matt Lattanzi, the newly revised administrative code for the City of Everett will go into effect this Saturday, April 27, as per Article 5 Section 1 of the City of Everett Charter.

Former Superintendent to be arraigned on criminal charges

Former Superintendent Fred Foresteire is confirmed to be arraigned on seven criminal charges, including indecent assault and battery, on Friday, April 26, in Malden District Court.

The arraignment had been postponed once before due to a new attorney being on the case for Foresteire, but DA Marian Ryan’s office confirmed Tuesday that the arraignment will go forward.

Attorney Gerard Malone, who was listed as Foresteire’s attorney, did not return a phone call for comment in time for this story.

Foresteire, who recently turned 76, has been charged with seven counts of assault and battery for allegedly inappropriately touching three female Everett Public Schools employees.

The specific charged include:

- Indecent assault and battery on a person over the age of 60.
- Assault and Battery.
- And, five counts of indecent assault and battery on a person over the age of 14.

MGC still deliberating in Encore Boston Harbor decision

The Massachusetts Gaming Commission (MGC) is still deliberating amongst its members more than two weeks after closing hearings into the Wynn Resorts/Encore Boston Harbor suitability termination.

The hearings attracted hundreds of eyes and a great deal of media as well, but since that time, not much has happened outside of closed doors.

A spokesman told the Independent that deliberations continue and a very public unveiling of the decision would take place after that.

There is no timeline right now as to when that decision would be made public. That decision includes whether or not Encore keeps its casino license, who in the Wynn organization will remain a qualifier, and what new members will be deemed qualified by the MGC.

Tips on preventing falls in the house for seniors

One in four Americans aged 65 or older falls each year, according to the National Council on Aging. Every 11 seconds, an older adult is treated in the emergency room for a fall; every 19 minutes, an older adult dies from a fall. Falls are the leading cause of fatal injury and the most common cause of nonfatal trauma-related hospital and nursing home admissions among older adults.

Although falls are prevalent in older adults, there could be many ways to help your loved one continue to live safely in their own home.

Falls and accidents seldom “just happen.” Usually there are at least several contributing factors that lead to a fall. The danger in some of these factors can be eliminated or reduced by taking simple steps recommended by Mystic Valley Elder Services to make an elder’s home safer. Here is a room-by-room breakdown of some of these steps.

Bathrooms: Place a rubber mat or rubber safety strips in the tub or shower. Install sturdy grab bars in the tub/shower area to provide support. Have a night light available to use after dark and in the middle of the night.

Bedrooms: Use night lights or bedside, remote-controlled light switches. Place the telephone in an area easy to get to and keep the cord out of walking pathways. Consider a cordless telephone.

Stairs and hallways: Put light switches conveniently at both the top and bottom of stairs. Make sure carpeting is not loose or buckling and use non-skid treads on stairs. Both sides of each stairway should have sturdy handrails running their entire lengths. Avoid waxing hardwood floors that could create a slippery surface.

Living areas: Secure and place electrical/telephone cords out of walking pathways. Remove throw rugs that might slide or attach non-skid strips to rug backings. Furniture should be arranged to allow for unobstructed walkways. It is important to keep floors clear of clutter.

Other tips to prevent falls:

- You should also be aware of clothing and behavior that can help create a safer environment. You should wear well-fitted, flat, rubber-soled shoes to prevent slipping.
- Do not walk or climb stairs with arms loaded—always leave a hand free for balance.
- Slowly get out of bed and slowly rise from sitting to avoid dizziness.
- Make sure to have your vision tested regularly and keeps her glasses clean.

- Be aware of any medications you are taking that could cause difficulty with balance.
- You should be discussing the falls with your primary care physician to see if there is a medical condition that needs attention.

The dangerous situation created by a fall is frequently compounded by the inability to call for help. Personal emergency response systems should be installed whenever someone appears to be at risk of falling. The systems provide 24-hour access to emergency help, giving both the elder and family members some sense of security

Located in Malden, Mass., Mystic Valley Elder Services is a non-profit agency that provides essential home- and community-based care and resources to elders, adults living with disabilities, and caregivers who reside in Chelsea, Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, North Reading, Reading, Revere, Stoneham, Wakefield and Winthrop. THE CURSE OF SOCIAL MEDIA AND THE INTERNET

In the aftermath of the terrible coordinated attacks by suicide bombers on Easter Sunday in Sri Lanka that killed more than 300 people and wounded about 500 in churches and hotels across the small nation, the Sri Lankan government took the extraordinary step of shutting down social media platforms, including Facebook, You Tube, and Twitter, in order to prevent the dissemination of misinformation that might incite even more bloodshed among its various sectarian groups.

This decade has seen the spread of social media that rightly might be compared to an out-of-control wildfire. What initially was seen as an innocuous manner of sharing information among friend groups -- think of friends sitting around a camp fire telling stories -- has turned into a raging inferno whipped by the winds of greed and hatred that is destroying everything in its path.

Say what you want about the recently released Mueller Report, what is beyond dispute is that it shows that the Russian government used social media through coordinated bot attacks to spread misinformation among large swaths of the American public who utilize these forms of media. In short, the Russians are using social media to undermine our democracy.

The attacker in New Zealand who committed the atrocities in two mosques drew his inspiration from social media postings by right-wing organizations and individuals from around the world and then posted his carnage live online. It was hours before the social media companies were able to take down what he posted, but by then the damage had been done and his carnage had been viewed around the globe.

In some respects, these abuses of online platforms by those who wish to spread fear and disinformation are just the tip of the iceberg of the curse that has become the Internet.

There is no such thing as privacy for anybody, unless you live under the proverbial rock. Everything we do on-line is tracked and establishes a profile that can be used -- and misused -- by those who are keeping track.

The Chinese government is showing firsthand how the Internet can be wielded by a malevolent government (and non-government actors) to control both unfavored opposition groups and individuals.

The Chinese are employing facial recognition software to identify every person in their country -- a monumental task in a nation of a billion or so people -- but it already is being used to keep track of, and suppress, minority religious groups.

The Chinese government also is issuing a "score" for every person in the country -- think of it as a credit score, but taken to the nth degree -- that ultimately will rank every person in the country on a scale of social and economic acceptability, creating a hierarchy that will determine a person's lifelong fate.

It also is clear that the internet has become the new battlefield among nations and others. Who needs nuclear weapons when a hostile government or terrorist organization or criminal enterprise can disable a nation's energy grid or wreak havoc on the financial system or hold individuals and businesses hostage simply by employing malevolent software?

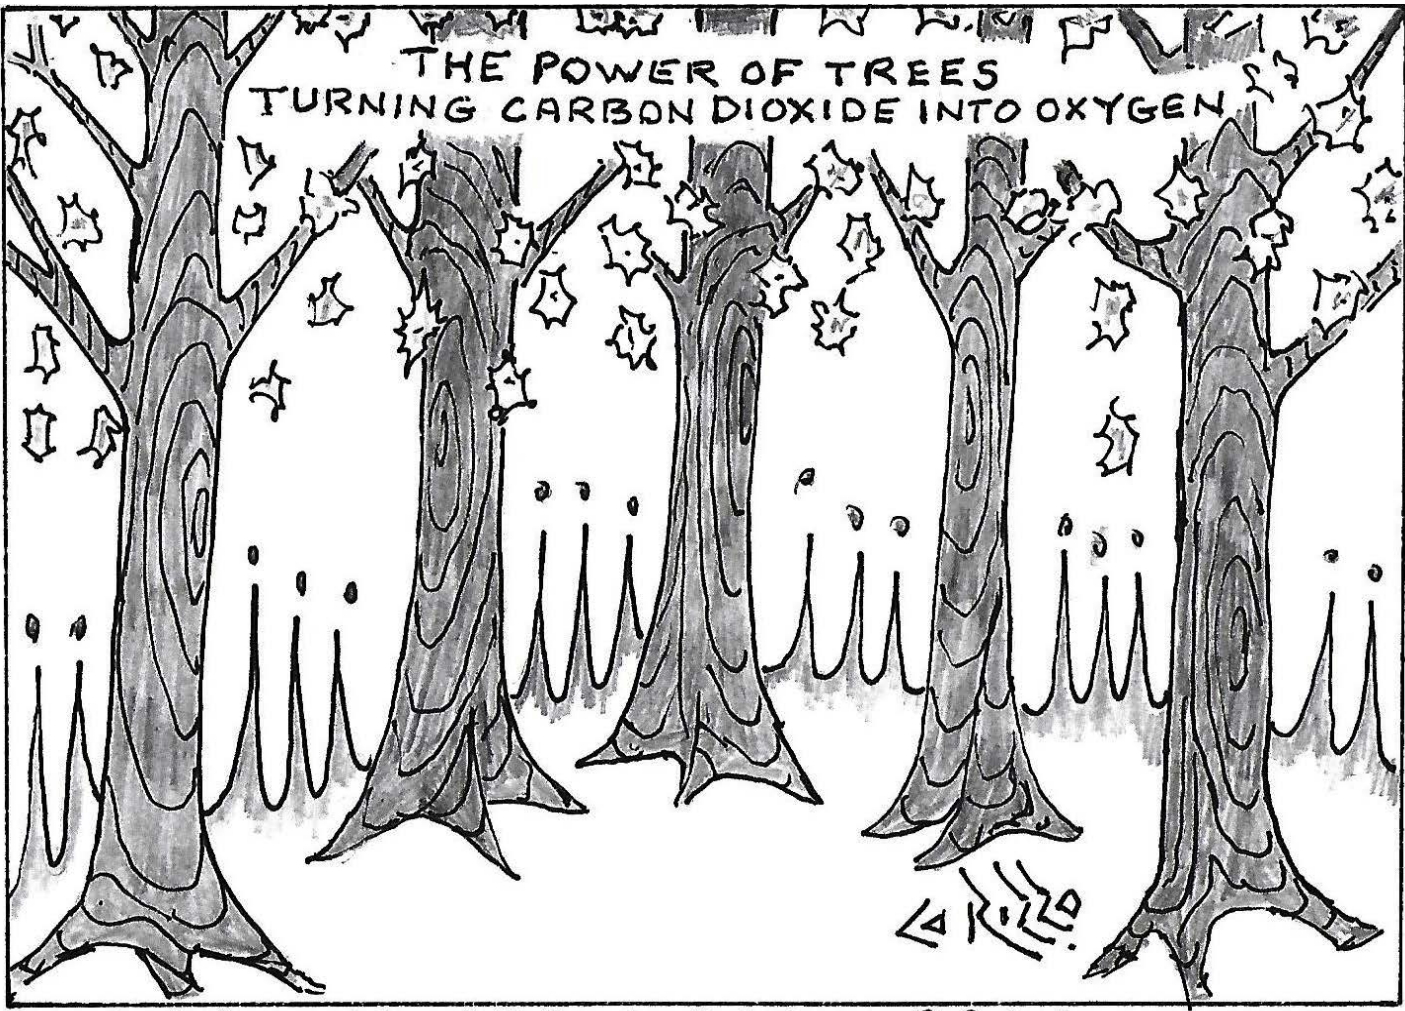

America's military might -- our trillions of dollars worth of aircraft carriers, stealth bombers, and drones -- is no match for a computer virus or worm that attacks our nation's infrastructure.

George Orwell, in his novel 1984, describes a dystopian future in which the government, symbolized by Big Brother, scrutinizes every human action with the aim of creating conformity among its citizens.

Orwell wrote his novel in '1948.' It is ironic -- and incredibly prescient of Orwell -- that the internet as we know it today was beginning to take shape in 1984.

It is clear in 2019 that the world Orwell predicted in 1984 has arrived -- and we fear that things are going to get a lot worse before we figure out how to get this Frankenstein monster under control, if we ever do.

Grassley-Klobuchar ushers in dangerous counterfeit drugs

By Sally C. Pipes

Congress is poised to consider a bill that would allow Americans to import prescription drugs from Canada. The bill's authors -- Sens. Amy Klobuchar (D-MN) and Chuck Grassley (R-IA) -- label their effort as a bipartisan push to "help Americans who struggle to pay exorbitant prices for medication."

It's noble of lawmakers to tackle prescription drug costs. Eight in ten Americans are concerned about the price of medicines, according to a Kaiser Family Foundation survey.

But the Grassley-Klobuchar bill isn't the right solution. While it might deliver some minor financial relief, it'll jeopardize the health and wellbeing of millions of Americans.

On cost, the Grassley-Klobuchar would yield negligible savings at best. If the entire nation legalized drug importation, number crunchers at the Department of Health and Human Services predict that American drug spending would decrease by less than 1 percent.

On safety, the bill exposes Americans to dangerous counterfeits. It's estimated that 1 million people die at the hand of counterfeit drugs every year, many of which come from Canada.

Last year, U.S. prosecutors fined Canada's largest online pharmacy $34 million for selling counterfeit medications to unsuspecting Americans. The company earned a $78 million profit by deceiving vulnerable cancer patients. Two widely sold oncology drugs -- Avastin and Altuzan -- contained zero active pharmaceutical ingredients.

Exacerbating safety concerns is the fact that a startling number of the "Canadian" drugs purchased by Americans aren't actually from Canada.

An FDA operation conducted at three major U.S. airports examining suspected pharmaceutical shipments from India, Israel, Costa Rica, and Vanuatu revealed that nearly half were ordered from "Canadian" pharmacies -- and of those, just 15 percent actually originated in Canada. The rest came from one of 27 countries across the world, including India, Turkey, and Iran.

The FDA warns Americans that it cannot ensure the safety of medicines "bought over the Internet from foreign sources, from storefront businesses that offer to buy foreign medicine for you, or during trips outside the United States."

Neither, for that matter, can our northern neighbor. Canadian authorities have repeatedly stated that they're not responsible for regulating the safety, quality, or efficacy of medicines sold to U.S. citizens.

Americans should not take the U.S. regulatory system for granted. Before obtaining FDA approval, new drugs must undergo a rigorous testing process. It takes approximately ten years, hundreds of pre-clinical treatments, and multiple clinical trials to bring just one product to the market.

Unfortunately, the same FDA oversight doesn't apply to foreign pharmacies. And the Grassley-Klobuchar bill fails to acknowledge the dangers of importation.

Lawmakers are right to worry about how much patients spend at the pharmacy. But drug importation is not the right way to lower costs. Congress needs to go back to the drawing board.

Earth Day

By Mayor Carlo DeMaria

This week, as we celebrate Earth Day, it is important that we raise awareness of both our environmental assets and the natural beauty that surrounds us, so that we all have a greater appreciation of the impacts that climate can have on us here locally. My goal is for our community to sustainably provide the amenities and services that residents expect- while working to protect our city from the dramatic effects of climate change.

As we are all increasingly aware, we are a community surrounded by water. The Mystic River, the Malden River, the Amelia Earhart Dam, Island End River, North and South Creek and Town Line Brook are all in and around Everett.

Each of these water bodies is subject to the impacts of climate change. At any time, they can cause enormous infrastructure damage as we face severe storms. In addition, these storms can overwhelm our storm water infrastructure and release large amounts of pollutants into our water bodies, causing toxic algae blooms and limiting recreational activities for days at a time.

This past year, we have already seen an increase in sea level rise and storm surge. Storms caused flooding and undermined the parking lot of the New England Produce Center and came within 18 inches to over-topping the Amelia Earhart Dam. This could have had catastrophic consequences including flooding a major National Grid substation along the Malden River. Many of our industrial facilities are located in areas vulnerable to flooding, including District Gas, the LNG Marine Terminal, the Exxon Mobil Marine Terminal, the New England Produce Center, Aggregate Industries, Amazon and Craft Brewers, just to name a few.

That is why we are working to identify all our vulnerabilities, paired with actionable steps to sustainably move our economy forward and assure that we can be resilient when major flooding occurs. And we are working to build resiliency into any future projects.

We are repairing all existing tide gates and installing new ones to reduce flooding during abnormally high tides.

We are partnering with the City of Chelsea to build green infrastructure, much like the Living Shore Line at the Encore resort, to mitigate flooding along the northern tip of the Island End Stream. This project will remove the deteriorating and ineffective hard barriers with a natural berm, add a walking path, and dramatically reduce the risk to vulnerable populations, infrastructure and businesses.

We are working with public and private partners to daylight as much of the Island End stream as possible. For the past 100 years, Island End stream has been channelized and buried underground. By daylighting this stream, we will bring this buried waterway back to life by physically uncovering and restoring it. This will reduce polluted runoff, address flash flooding concerns, and improve the livability of this area of the city that has long been forgotten.

We can and will improve our environment and the quality of our lives at the same time.

Our modern car culture is responsible for nearly one-third of harmful emissions in the United States.

I want cars off our roads, with traffic congestion a thing of the past, and active, healthy transportation like biking and walking prioritized.

The Broadway dedicated bus-lane is successful and has gained international acclaim. It has reduced bus travel time by 20 percent and it has become a model for local innovation to improve transit. We have installed new raised boarding platforms to make it even easier for riders and a new state of the art traffic signal technology to prioritize buses at intersections to further reduce travel time.

We are partnering with Encore and will soon have a local shuttle service that will circle you around Everett to the MBTA. We are also on the leading edge of bike sharing. Last year we introduced Lime Bike. This year we are bringing Blue Bikes to Everett. We are the first community to have both services. That means if you want to bike to Boston, Cambridge or Somerville you can take a Blue Bike. If you want to take a bike to Malden, Medford, Revere, and a host of other North Shore Communities, you can take a Lime Bike. By introducing these programs in Everett, we are building sustainable, low cost and convenient local transportation options to residents and visitors of all incomes, ages

defeats Revere, 8-3

The Everett High softball team put it all together to earn an 8-3 victory over Northeastern Conference South Division rival Revere last Tuesday.

Freshman Celeste Fuccillo went all the way in the pitcher's circle, allowing just five hits and two earned runs while striking out seven Lady Patriot batters and walking only two in her seven innings of work.

The Lady Crimson Tide struck in a big way in the opening inning with a six-run rally that would prove to be decisive.

After Haley Oteri reached first on an error and Maddy Duraes reached on a fielder's choice (with Oteri advancing to third), Kaylee Nearen ripped a double up the middle, bringing in both Oteri and Duraes.

Maddy Smith drew a base-on-balls and Ariana Garay singled into the outfield to score Nearen. Elizabeth Peach then came through with a double, delivering Smith and Garay. Ashley Fitzgerald completed the rally with a single into the outfield to score Peach.

Revere threatened to get on the board in its half of the inning with a two-out rally, comprised of a walk and a base hit, that produced runners at second and third with two outs.

However, Nearen -- the Lady Crimson Tide's stellar catcher -- picked off the Lady Patriot runner at third to end the Revere threat.

Revere whittled away at the Everett advantage with two runs in the third and a solo marker in the fifth to leave matters at 6-3 after six innings.

However, the Everett bats came alive in the top of the seventh to add two extra insurance runs to put the game on ice. Duress walked and Nearen followed with a base hit up the middle. After Ashley Yebba came in as a courtesy runner for Nearen, both runners advanced to a base, from where they sped home on a double by Peach, Elizabeth's second, two-run two-bagger of the contest.

Fuccillo handled matters adroitly in the bottom of the seventh, setting down the Revere side with a 1-2-3 inning.

"I am beyond ecstatic for these girls," said EHS head coach Stacy Poste-Schiavo. "They were fired up all week for this game. We have always had close games with Revere, but we wanted this one and it showed. Celeste did an amazing job on the mound and the offense was on fire right from the start. We did make a few errors, but made the right plays when they had runners on, stopping them from scoring."

The Lady Crimson Tide have a busy week ahead with six games in 10 days.

They were set to take on Somerville this past Monday and will host Lynn English today (Wednesday) under the lights at Glendale Park at 7 p.m. They will trek to Salem on Friday and to Lynn Classical Saturday morning before returning home to host Malden next Monday. They will be back on the road to Medford next Wednesday.

Vu, Jules, Chavez,
Louis win for track
boys

Although the Everett High boys outdoor track & field team came up on the short end of a 97-39 decision to Revere last week, a number of members of the Crimson Tide squad turned in fine performances.

Ryan Vu was the top point-scorer for Everett, contributing 11 points to the EHS side of the scoresheet. Ryan outsped the field in the 200 meter dash in a time of 24.6 seconds and finished in second place in both the long jump with a leap of 19'-6" and the triple jump with a landing of 39'-6.5".

Clarence Jules, one of the top sprinters in the Northeastern Conference, dashed to victory in the 100 meters in 11.5. Teammate Samy LaMoth was second in 11.7.

Jason Louis was the first to cross the line in the 400 dash to win that event in a clocking of 55.6. Jarian Chavez grabbed first place in the discus with a throw of 109'-9", which was a full five feet further than his closest competitor.

Other Crimson Tide who scored points were Justin King with a second place in the 400 hurdles in 63.5; Javier Chavez with a third place in the javelin with a toss of 108'-7"; and Chonlee Cine with a third in the 110 hurdles in 18.1.

EHS head coach Jehu Cimea and his crew were set to take on Lynn English yesterday (Tuesday) and Salem next Thursday.

and abilities, increasing the quality of experience and providing greater access to jobs, amenities, and local services.

We are in the midst of a cultural shift when it comes to car ownership, driven in large part by the values and preferences of our young people. And I am proud to be working with the Boston University MetroBridge program, where a class of public policy students from around the world are currently studying our city and generating recommendations to take people out of cars. I look forward to their analysis.

However, we will not build a sustainable economy and fight climate change by changing our car-centric culture alone. Our increasing reliance on electricity releases enormous amounts of carbon dioxide into the atmosphere; in fact, 40 percent of carbon dioxide emissions in the United States come from electricity production. This is why I recently announced that the City of Everett has entered into a long-term power purchase agreement with a clean energy provider, Syncarpha Solar, LLC.

We will be purchasing energy credits generated by the company's eleven "Community Shared Solar" projects, all located in Massachusetts. These projects are expected to generate 76 million kilowatt hours of clean, renewable solar energy annually. Under the 20-year agreement, we will not only save money, but will do our part to build a sustainable economy for generations to come.

But larger corporations and businesses also need to do their part. For too long, the National Grids of the world have been profiting on the backs of the cities and towns of Massachusetts and not contributing as a local partner. Where other wealthier communities have had the resources to block industrial uses, poorer communities have been forced to accept it. Today, we will no longer allow large corporations and multinational utilities to block off access to our waterfront and pollute our land and our water.

Over the past two years, we have worked closely with the legal experts of the Conservation Law Foundation and the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protect to open our waterfront to our residents and our surrounding communities. After all, we are the most diverse city in the Commonwealth and we deserve no less than what the richest communities have. That is also why I have invested in our parks, open spaces and waterfront. Boston, Cambridge, Newton, Weston, and others all enjoy beautiful walking paths along the Charles. It is time Everett residents of all races, ages and incomes to enjoy the physical and mental health benefits of visiting urban parks and open spaces. By investing our resources, we are putting Everett on par with our richer neighbors and moving closer to social equity.

Please join me on Saturday, May 11th to celebrate the beauty of the environment around us by working together as we hold our Annual Spring Clean Up. There will be various spots designated throughout the City for cleaning. Volunteers are asked to meet at the Everett DPW (19 Norman Street) at 8:00AM. To pre-register or for more information, please visit <http://www.cityofeverett.com/FormCenter/Special-Events-7/2018-Spring-Clean-Up-PreRegistration-51>. bring life back into that area.”

The first thing they did was take a trip to City Hall to look at the old maps of Wyllis Avenue and learn about what was there and what is around it.

Each of the students has come up with a design of their own, but many of the students have adopted some of the best ideas into their designs.

One of those ideas is a photo booth in front of a mural, or in front of living plants.

“I wanted the photo booth so people could take photos and share them on social media and with friends,” said Wyzard. “That will help people know about our rain garden.”

Most of the plans include the rain garden in the center with pathways leading through the area to the Community Trail. There are benches in most designs, and small sheds that contain tools and equipment. All of the designs also include paths that are accessible for those in wheelchairs, which was important to the kids. They all included a Little Free Library location in the space as well. (Little Free Libraries are bookshelves in public spaces that encourage people to take a book or leave a book at their leisure).

Heidi Orellana Ramos had the idea to include trash cans shaped like mushrooms, a red top on the mushroom would be for regular trash and the green top would be for recycling.

Matthew Fonseca had the idea of instituting a cloud bench for sitting in the space, a feature that would reinforce the rain cycle and how the rain garden works.

“I remember seeing a drop-let bench and I thought since we were doing a rain garden, we should include a cloud since that’s where rain comes from,” he said.

Several students were also very excited about Philip Fonseca’s idea for a Lotus Flower mural on the side of the abutting building. The Lotus would symbolize the students creating something new and pretty that rises out of the muck and the mud – like a Lotus.

In all, the students will continue designing the space and hope to have it instituted by the end of the year.

Council approves appointees to Everett Police Department, Election Commission

By Laura Plummer

Councilors at Monday night's Council meeting unanimously approved the appointment of eight new patrolmen to the Everett Police Department. The officers faced a packed audience to be sworn into public service by City Clerk Sergio Cornelio.

Andre Afonso, Nicholas Basteri, Bryan DaSilva, Carlos Flores, Kelsey Grenham, Sarah Nawoichik, Nicholas Stanfield and Daniel Wall took an oath to serve the City faithfully and to uphold the Constitution before posing for photos with their families and members of the administration.

The eight officers had just completed a six-month police academy and will be receiving their permanent assignments upon the completion of nine additional weeks of specialized training.

Councilors were also united in their support of Council President Dell Isola's proposal to reappoint Dorothy Martin Long to the position of Commissioner of the Election Department for a three-year term. Long received accolades from Council during the meeting for being the only Commissioner who is being reappointed after all of her colleagues on the Election Commission resigned.

Eight new patrolmen were approved and sworn into the Everett Police Department on Monday night during the Council meeting. The officers will now undergo nine weeks of specialized training before hitting the streets.

Also, newly appointed to the Election Commission was Linda-Lee Angiolillo for a term of four years. According to its website, the Election Department promotes voter registration and engages the community in the electoral process. The Commission administers Campaign Finance Law for candidates and committees on the municipal level.

New Ministry - At the back of the Church in the Vestibule area on Sundays following Masses, there is a team of volunteers who will answer your questions regarding our Church Ministries, etc. Please feel free to stop by and ask questions, schedule a Mass, register as a new Parishioner, etc.

Bring a Book-Buy a Book - We have a new Fundraiser Program in the back of the Church. It's called Bring a Book-Buy a Book. All books are a dollar and any money collected will go towards our Stain Glass Fund. Brink a Book and Buy a Book and make a donation. Our selections are great and varied. Please stop by the table and see what we have. Thank you

Human trafficking is modern-day slavery. Victims are exploited for their labor or forced to provide sexual acts for someone else’s profit. They are not free to leave their situation.

You Are Not Alone

- Are you being forced to do things that make you feel uncomfortable?
- Has someone lied to you to get you to do a job with no way out?
- Are you working a job where someone else controls your money?
- Is someone threatening you or your family if you don’t do what they ask?
- Are you feeling unsafe where you stay?
- Are people giving you things (gifts, money, food, drugs, a place to stay, etc.) for sex? Are you under 18?
- Is someone telling you they love you and asks you to have sex for money?
