Short-term rental operators subject to new fee starting July 1

By Laura Plummer

At the City Council meeting on Tuesday, May 28, Councilors unanimously approved a measure that would charge a 3 percent Community Impact Fee to the operators of short-term rentals in the City of Everett, including those using Airbnb and other rental booking sites.

It will go into effect July 1. The fee is part of the Short-Term Rental Ordinance approved by the Council earlier this year. Councilors were given the option to impose between 1 percent and 3 percent in the Community Impact Fee, and they chose the maximum.

Operators of short-term rentals will be assessed the 3 percent fee paid directly to the Department of Revenue (DOR) in the form of an excise on the total rental revenue. The State will then give that back to the City on a quarterly basis and Councilors voted that the fee go toward affordable housing and infrastructure. This fee is on top of the 6 percent Occupan-

Encore debuts Neighborhood Runner shuttle

By Seth Daniel

The new shuttle service throughout Everett has launched, and dubbed the Neighborhood Runner, the service began operating on Monday, June 3.

"We started service on Monday, June 3, at 5 a.m.," said Jim Folk, director of Transportation for Encore Boston Harbor. "Now, it is running 24/7, 365 days a year. It starts its route at the Chelsea Market Basket every 20 minutes on the 20...I really think it's going to be a successful route. It's great for our employees and guests, and it's great for Everett because it gives them a new connection to the Silver Line for the airport, Seaport and even South Station."

The new Neighborhood Runner stops at Market Basket (Chelsea), then goes through Everett to Everett Square (outside Braza's), then to the GE site on Air Force Road, and finally to the Encore resort.

Employees reported to the resort on Monday, and Folk said the Runner has become popular already with the new employees looking to get to work from the neighborhoods, or to catch transit lines that run near the new stops.

"Believe it or not, we have picked up some passengers even though we haven't advertised the Runner yet to the public," Folk said. "Our employees are aware of it and many are actually taking it to and from the resort. We had a good amount of people on Monday that used it. We expect more and more people as time goes on. I think it will really be successful."

The 26-passenger Runner is made by Grech, and has a lot of extras.

The Final Bell

Pope John XXIII High School will close its doors on Thursday

By Cary Shuman

When the 200 students walk out of Pope John XXIII High School for their final day of classes on Thursday (June 6), it will mark the final chapter in the 53-year history of the Catholic institution.

Ninety-two seniors had received their diplomas in the school's graduation ceremony on May 23. There will be a Mass Thursday at 5 p.m. followed by a farewell reception in the school cafeteria for students, faculty, parents, and alumni.

As previously outlined in a letter to Pope John parents from Head of School Carl DiMaiti, the school is closing due to "the unfortunate circumstances" that led to a $1.3 million shortfall in the school budget for the 2018-19 academic year.

The deficit was caused by International Residence

Management (IRM) "failing to meet the obligations of its agreements with the school."

Principal Thomas Mahoney was a member of the first Pope John graduating class in 1970. He is a shining example of the many area students who chose Pope John for its outstanding Catholic education, its reputation for sending its graduates to the top colleges, and its athletic tradition that flourished under some superb leaders such as former football coach Bill Perkins and current coaches Paul Sobolewski, Leo Boucher, and Jake Feraco.

Mahoney went on to attend Boston College, enter the field of education, become a brilliant teacher and soccer coach himself at Chelsea High, continue his career in the Malden school system, and ultimately return to Pope John as its principal the past six years.

"Certainly there's some irony being involved in the first class and giving diplomas out to the last one," said Mahoney. "I didn't expect that."

Mahoney, 67, said he will always carry the fondness he has for the school in his heart.

"This is a great community, a great place to be," said Mahoney. "I wish I had retired

Dealer School holds graduation ceremony for first two classes

By Seth Daniel

More than 150 people took the step towards becoming card dealers at the new Encore Boston Harbor during a graduation ceremony at Everett High School on Saturday, June 1, for the Greater Boston Gaming Career Institute run by Cambridge College.

The Institute has graduated two classes now, one in the Fall and one this Spring, with all of the graduates being eligible for a job on the gaming floor of the Encore Boston Harbor resort.

The ceremony on Saturday was a way to mark the occasion for the first two successful classes.

On hand was Massachusetts Gaming Commissioner Bruce Stebbins, who was pleased to see so many taking the opportunity to work in the new gaming industry.

"I had the privilege of attending the graduation of students who have completed training for one or two casino games at the Cambridge College Greater Boston Gaming Career Institute or as it has become known - "Bet on U," he said. "On Saturday, almost 200 students were in attendance to receive certificates

Everett's Stephanie Sacramone and Juliana Campos were amongst those to receive their certificates on Saturday evening, June 1, at Cambridge College's Greater Boston Gaming Career Institute first-ever graduation ceremony. The ceremony was held at Everett High and had more than 150 students who qualified to be hired as a dealer at Encore Boston Harbor.

Move-in Day

Thousands report to work, executive team moves into resort offices

By Seth Daniel

Monday marked the biggest day to date for Encore Boston Harbor and its crew of 4,800 employees as they reported to work at the resort site for the first time, and existing employees and the executive team moved into offices at the Encore tower.

After many job fairs, interviews, discussions and trainings, approximately 4,800 active employees were brought on board at the new Encore Boston Harbor resort casino site on Monday, June 3 - the first day that work began in earnest at the $2.2 billion resort, which opens June 23.

It also marked the first day for existing workers and the executive to move out of their long-time offices at Station Landing and into offices at the resort tower.

From shuttle drivers to blackjack dealers to employee cafeteria chefs to Encore President Bob DeSalvio, most everyone with a job to do at Encore was on site Monday.

"On Monday, we were able to move into the resort," said President Bob DeSalvio. "We now have 4,800 incredibly excited and enthusiastic employees preparing to receive our guests. This is truly a magical time in the building, as employees embark on new careers that positively impact not only their lives but also their families. I'm seeing a lot of smiling faces this week."

Said Mayor Carlo DeMaria, "I brought this project to Everett for the jobs it would create, jobs that pay a living wage with real opportunity for advancement. Seeing thousands of excited workers report for orientation at this beautiful facility on Monday, six years after this project began, was truly an excellent day for our community."

Employees have been busy getting acclimated to their jobs for the past few weeks, training in massive conferences off-site at the Connolly Center and in Boston function halls. Monday marked the first day they could begin training onsite, getting their uniforms from the state-of-the-art clothing check system.

To date, Encore representatives said they have brought on 4,800 employees, but they are not yet finished.

They still have offers out to another 700 employees, and are looking to employee another 300 employees. That number includes dealers and others throughout the organization.

Mayor Carlo DeMaria joined Wynn Resorts CEO Matt Maddox and Encore President Bob DeSalvio at the Oyster Bar in Encore Boston Harbor on Monday for a first-day tour of the resort. Monday marked the first day of work at the casino for some 4,800 workers, as well as the first day for the executive team to move into their permanent offices on site.

This year, they raised more than $2,250 for the school.

Councilor Mike McLaughlin was accompanied by Patti Frati at the fundraiser.

Councilor Anthony DiPierro, Council President Rich Dell Isola, School Committeeman Frank Parker, and Kathleen Parker helped raise money for the Devens School at Stewart’s.

Candidates Jimmy Le, Renee Solano, and Joseph LaMonica were joined by Brendan Mangan at the fundraiser.

School Committeeman Frank Parker and Councilor Anthony DiPierro poured drinks at the bar for charity.

Mark Puleo, Councilor Rosa DiFlorio, and School Committeeman Marcony Almeida-Barros enjoyed an afternoon at Stewart’s.

Senator Sal DiDomenico was accompanied by Councilor John Hanlon and State Rep. Joe McGonagle at the fundraiser.

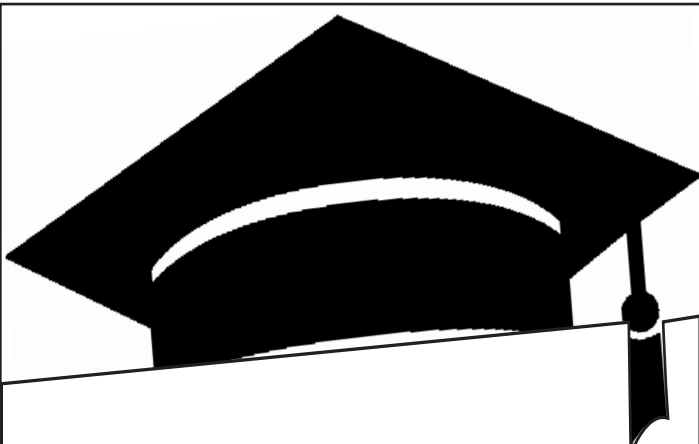

Council Candidate Jimmy Le joined Mike Mangan outside of Stewart’s Pub during the Devens School Fundraiser.

School Committee Candidate Cynthia Sarnie joined School Committeeman Marcony Almeida-Barros.

School Committeeman Frank Parker and former City Clerk Marty Matarazzo entertained the audience by singing songs.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE CLASS OF 2019

Graduation Day is one of the few occasions that brings a smile to the faces of everyone in a community, regardless of whether they know a graduate. It is an occasion when all of us share in the joy -- and pride -- that graduation day marks in the lives of our young people. For older folks, graduation day recalls a time when we too, were young and full of life.

However, graduation day marks a bittersweet moment for parents, friends, family, and teachers, as well the grads themselves. As befits every turning point in our lives, it is a time of mixed emotions of joy, sadness, and reflection. Although the graduates and those close to them are looking forward to the exciting future that lies before them, they also will be looking back on the passing of their carefree youth and the experiences that have shaped their lives to this point.

The young women and men who receive their diplomas no longer are considered “youths” in the eyes of the world. They are full-fledged adults who have been deemed ready to assume all of the rights -- and responsibilities -- that adulthood implies.

The graduates, most of whom have turned 18, can vote, run for public office, enter into contracts, be tried fully as adults in the criminal justice system, and fight and die for their country.

For the parents of the grads, watching their “little boy or girl” proceed to the podium to receive his or her diploma will be a poignant moment. No doubt every parent will be thinking of the sentiments expressed in the song Sunrise, Sunset from Fiddler On The Roof:

*Is this the little girl I carried?
Is this the little boy at play?
I don't remember growing older
When - did - they?
When did she get to be a beauty?
When did he grow to be so tall?
Wasn't it yesterday when they - were - small?*

Although economists these days tell us that the value of a high school diploma is not what it was a generation or more ago, the graduates should keep in mind, as they contemplate venturing out into an uncertain future, that their mere presence on the podium has proven that they have the ability and the determination to achieve whatever goals they may set for themselves.

We came across a news item from one of our sister publications, The Winthrop Sun-Transcript, from June 24, 1898. The article, which reprinted the Class Ode for the Winthrop High Class of 1898, is as timely today as it was 121 years ago, and sums up the feelings of all of us on Graduation Day.

*The years pass by in swift array
We cannot check their onward flight;
The moments that were ours today,
Have passed forever from our sight.*

*Yet while the course of life moves by
We too, must never lag behind;
But work and strive as best we may
To aid and benefit all mankind.*

*This we must do, or soon too late
We think in sadness of our loss,
For “Each is Master of his Fate,”
Though some must bear a heavy cross.*

*And when the race of life is run,
This life that holds so much for each
Shall come the gentle words, “Well done!”
As we at last the goal have reached.*

A Green New Deal of action

By Jack Clarke

Massachusetts needs its own Green New Deal – but it needs to be a deal of action.

Although not a law but more a resolution expressing the will of the Congress on the necessity to address the climate crisis and economic inequality, the Green New Deal, filed by New York Congresswoman Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez and our own Sen. Ed Markey, was killed by the Senate in a vote following no review and analysis by legislative staff, no expert testimony or committee hearings, and no floor debate. The message was clear: the U.S. Senate does not want to discuss the climate’s breakdown. So we at the state level will.

The name harkens back to the New Deal and its social and economic reforms, and public works projects, undertaken by President Franklin Roosevelt in response to the Great Depression.

The Green New Deal echoes Roosevelt’s economic stimuli incentives and adds plans for renewable energy and resource efficiency.

FDR’s New Deal was not realized in one bill in one year, but became law through various pieces of legislation over the first three years of his first administration. Beacon Hill lawmakers should also develop an ambitious multi-year plan to meaningfully confront climate change, the most urgent threat of our lifetime, in their version of a Green New Deal – but it needs to be more than a good idea. And it needs to pass.

Although the national Green New Deal is admittedly a vision statement, the Massachusetts version should be a statutory set of requirements with goals, targets, and reasonable dates that move us forward in addressing the climate breakdown.

Our version should start with and include at a minimum, laws establishing:

§ Zero net carbon emissions, meaning Massachusetts emits only the carbon emissions that it can capture or reabsorb – by 2050.

§ An Annual increase in the amount of clean energy that utilities are required to buy, leading to 100 percent renewables – by 2047.

§ Environmentally responsible development of 6,000 megawatts of offshore wind energy, and quickly scaling up from there. This is well beyond the 1,600 MW required now – by 2027.

§ A carbon fee: Massachusetts and eight other states, along with the District of Columbia, are presently participating in the Transportation Carbon Initiative that would cap regional transportation emissions and require fuel wholesalers to buy pollution permits for the fuels they sell. Revenues from the sale of the permits would then go back to states for investments in public transit, electric vehicles, bike lanes, and other initiatives to reduce carbon emissions in the transportation sector – by 2021. And if the regional approach fails, Massachusetts needs to be ready to go out on our own and pass a statewide carbon fee.

§ Improved solar options: allow net metering not just for Massachusetts homes but for all non-residential solar facilities to free up Bay State businesses and communities to build more solar projects, create more jobs, and allow for millions of dollars of investments – by 2021.

§ Create green jobs: Mobilize the academic and research assets of the Commonwealth to more fully contribute to the innovation economy and create more green jobs. This will require increased investments of private and state funds in Massachusetts’ 114 colleges and universities to research and apply advanced technologies in the fields of deep-water offshore wind energy, solar, carbon capture and re-use, and long-term high-quantity battery storage. This investment in education and innovation would unleash clean energy jobs. Although there are 110,700 such jobs in the Commonwealth workforce today, it’s still just

3 percent of Massachusetts employment. It needs to grow substantially – by 2021.

§ Environmental, social and economic justice principles should be embedded in all newly passed state laws whereby the power of communities of color, low-income, rural, indigenous, under-represented and non-English speaking residents in Massachusetts would be harnessed to help eradicate environmental racism and classism, to create healthy, and sustainable communities – by 2019.

The changes we experience today, such as stronger storms, accelerated sea-level rise, and intense heat are just the beginning of what should be expected.

There needs to be a sense of urgency on Beacon Hill when it comes to our climate emergency, especially as recent reports from the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change and the National Climate Assessment warn we have only 12 years to figure out a solution before things really start to fall apart.

For my grandchildren, six year old Haley and her five year old brother Jack, who will be teenagers in twelve years, it is time for lawmakers to act, and to act now.

Jack Clarke is the director of public policy and government relations at Mass Audubon.

Casino concerns again dominate at City Council meeting

By Laura Plummer

With not months, but weeks, to go before the Encore Boston Harbor is set to throw open its doors, the City Council sought clarification on a number of issues regarding the gambling establishment at its monthly meeting on Tuesday, May 28. Some of the issues had been raised previously while others were brand new.

•Participation Restrictions

Councilor Peter Napolitano had previously asked that the City Solicitor look into whether or not elected officials are legally able to visit the casino once opened. City Solicitor Colleen Mejia came armed with the answers Council was looking for, provided by KP Law, gaming law experts.

In short, the Councilors will have unlimited access to the casino and its facilities, but only as private citizens. The occasions upon which they would be able to visit the casino as representatives of the City Council would be limited to the grand opening ribbon cutting ceremony and events called “play days.” The idea is that they can declare those visits as fulfilling a “legitimate public purpose” by promoting the City and gathering information to relay to constituents.

When representing Council, Councilors would have to fill out a disclosure form stating that the visit represents a public purpose and thus does not constitute the appearance of a conflict. They will be able to accept any free food and beverages offered at those events, provided they don’t exceed a value of $50. Anything above $50 would also have to be disclosed in writing.

•Conflicts of Interest

Mejia was also invited to speak about the larger issue of conflicts of interest regarding elected officials and the casino, with Councilor Wayne Matewsky suggesting that anyone on the Council with family working at the casino should recuse himself from votes that would benefit the casino.

Solicitor Mejia said, in general, a Councilor should recuse herself or herself from votes impacting the casino if he or she has an immediate family member working there. However, she also emphasized that it was a case by case basis.

“I would always advise to run it by the State Ethics Commission, as their opinion is the official opinion,” she said, adding that any decision by State Ethics was communicated only to the individual and it was his or her job to inform Council of the decision.

•Fine Payment

At the last Council meeting, Councilor Anthony DiPierro presented a resolution for what should be done with the $35 million fine paid by Wynn Resorts to the Massachusetts Gaming Commission. Several Councilors had agreed that it shouldn’t be treated as regular gambling income and should instead be reinvested in the host city, Everett.

The Mayor’s Chief of Staff Kevin O’Donnell spoke to Council on this topic, stating that the fine payment would be treated as gambling revenue and would be controlled by the Massachusetts Gaming Commission. He said that 6.5 percent would go to the community mitigation fund, which some have proposed go toward traffic management, and 50 percent would go into the Transportation Infrastructure Fund.

Councilor DiPierro asked the Chief of Staff to speak to the Gaming Commission about the City’s needs for transportation alternatives, such as a footbridge.

•Petition for Extended Hours

Councilors voted unanimously to approve Encore’s request for a special license for extended hours. Encore had previously requested approval from Council but the Council had moved to postpone a vote until after the City presented its traffic and parking master plan on May 28.

•Road Safety

Councilor Michael McLaughlin’s constituents have expressed concern that extending Encore’s liquor license into the early morning hours could lead to an increase in people driving while intoxicated, thus making the streets less safe.

To see if that was a legitimate concern, Councilor McLaughlin requested the Everett Chief of Police and the Massachusetts Gaming State Police provide statistics about DUIs in Springfield.

He is curious whether DUIs in that town have increased in the wake of the MGM Casino’s new 4 a.m. liquor license.

•Host Agreement

Councilor McLaughlin also requested clarification on the host agreement between the City and the casino. He wanted to know if there was a clause that would address what would happen if Encore failed to meet its projected earnings and wanted to renegotiate its contributions to the City.

Councilor McLaughlin would like the Mayor and an Encore representative to appear at a committee meeting on June 4 to discuss the issue.

•Complaint Hotline

Councilors unanimously proposed the creation of a citizens complaint hotline serviced by Encore, which residents could call to discuss any concerns about how the casino is impacting their community.

“We need an exclusive line for complaints, especially in the first year, even if it’s a recorded line,” said Councilor Matewsky. “We’re going to get an increase in calls. I want it advertised in the newspapers of the host city. This is a simple request.”

Councilor Matewsky summed up his outlook on the casino with the following:

LOCAL STUDENTS EARN ACADEMIC HONORS

DORVIL RECEIVES CROWN AND SHIELD AWARD

A day before their Sunday, May 12 commencement, a select number of exemplary students were honored with the College's Crown and Shield Award during a luncheon with their families and College administrators.

Gemaers Gee Dorvil of Everett, Gemaers Gee Dorvil, of Everett, graduated with a degree in mathematics and minors in computer science and physics. Dorvil was a member of the ALANA Network for his four years at Assumption, starting as a general member, then executive board secretary and concluding her service this year as president. Credited with developing a number of new traditions on campus that celebrate diversity and inclusion at Assumption College, Dorvil also served as head resident assistant where he excelled in planning and implementing the Foundation Friday training sessions for his fellow resident assistants. He was also a dedicated member of Positively Achieving Leadership by Men in Society (PALMS) for three years. Dorvil is most proud of his work to create a family for students of color on campus, and empower them to pursue their goals. In recommending Dorvil for the award, a nominator shared that he, "exemplifies everything it means to be a student leader. He is a person of character, a role model for younger students, and carries himself in a mature, professional manner no matter what he is doing. He is a true asset to the College because of his dedication to leadership and service." Dorvil is seeking employment as a software engineering and plans to pursue a master's degree.

Gemaers Gee Dorvil of Everett, MA (02149). Gemaers graduated with a major in Mathematics and minors in Computer Science and Physics. Dorvil's involvement at Assumption varied as he was an ALANA Network member for all four years, starting as a general member, then executive board Secretary, and finishing up as the ALANA President this past year. Dorvil served as the Head RA the past 3 years, where he excelled in planning and implementing the Foundation Friday training sessions for his fellow RA's. Dorvil was also a member of PALMS (Positively Achieving Leadership by Men in Society) for the past three years. Gemaers is most proud of the opportunity he had to create a family for students of color on campus, and encourage them to do things they hadn't thought possible. A nominator said that Dorvil "exemplifies everything it means to be a student leader. He is a person of character, a role model for younger students, and carries himself in a mature, professional manner no matter what he is doing. He is a true asset to the College because of his dedication to leadership and service." After graduation, Dorvil will seek employment in a software engineering position and then he plans to pursue his Master's degree in a year.

The Crown and Shield awards is a tradition at Assumption, celebrated since 1952. The award was established as a result of students appealing to the administration to develop a special recognition for outstanding seniors. The crown and shield exist as key icons in the College seal.

Those recognized with this award have demonstrated outstanding leadership and participated in selfless service to the College throughout his or her four years of study. Students are recognized members of the Assumption College Community who have protected (shield) and furthered (crown) in the interests of the student body and the College in the various areas of leadership and community service to students and others.

"Crown and Shield recipients, your families are very proud of you today and they have that right to be proud," said Dr. Catherine Wood-Brooks, vice president of student affairs. "You have been selected as the outstanding student leaders in the Class of 2019, a designation afforded to only three percent of the graduating class. It should be noted that many of you also lead through service to others and have experienced the joy of giving that will undoubtedly continue throughout your lives."

LOCAL STUDENTS NAMED TO ASSUMPTION COLLEGE DEAN'S LIST

Assumption College has announced that 558 undergraduate students, or recent graduates, have been named to the College's prestigious Dean's List for the spring 2019 semester.

Hugo Mateo of Everett
John McCormack of Everett

To receive recognition, students must earn a grade point average of 3.5 for a five-class, 15-credit semester. The Dean's List is announced following the spring and fall semesters.

"Earning a place on the Dean's List signifies more than just ability," said Eloise Knowlton, Ph.D., dean of undergraduate studies. "It marks a serious commitment to study and achievement, a disciplined approach to student life, and consistent effort and engagement over the span of the semester. We are very proud indeed of those who appear on the list."

Providing to students opportunities to obtain a depth and breadth of knowledge, the Assumption curriculum prepares students for professionally and personally fulfilling lives and careers. Students study at the Worcester, Massachusetts or Rome, Italy campuses and become engaged participants in Assumption's classic liberal arts education and professional programs, exploring new ideas, making connections across disciplines, and pushing themselves to achieve more than they ever thought possible. To prepare for the workforce or the pursuit of additional study, students learn cutting-edge theory and best practices and develop excellent communication and critical-analysis skills - quintessential skills of a liberal arts education - through classroom work, internships, and involvement in extracurricular activities.

LOCAL RESIDENTS NAMED TO THE BECKER COLLEGE DEAN'S LIST

The following local residents were named to Dean's List at Becker College for the spring 2019 semester. Vocational students make marker holders for Wakefield School Northeast Metro Tech Carpentry students recently completed a project to help some of their younger peers exercise their creativity while staying organized.

Northeast Metro Tech carpentry sophomores Jose Verde, of Chelsea, Brady McKinley, of Woburn, Lucky Bustamante, of Everett, David DeFilippo, of Reading, Esaw Solis Molina, of Saugus, and Christopher Quinom, of Chelsea, created eight marker holders for students at the Greenwood Elementary School in Wakefield.

The project came to fruition after Greenwood art teacher Amy Drago realized she needed a better way for her students to store their markers.

"The caps are too difficult for the little ones to snap closed so caps go missing and markers get dried out," Drago said. "The marker holders are not a new concept and you can purchase them in a store, but they are very expensive for a public school art budget."

Given Northeast's strong community partnerships, Drago knew exactly who to ask to help her complete the project. She reached out to Northeast's carpentry department earlier this month to create wooden marker holders.

Students quickly got to work, cutting out eight blocks of wood and then drilling 24 holes in each block that perfectly fit the caps of the markers.

"This was a great project that allowed our sophomore students to practice what they're learning in shop and create something that will directly benefit their younger peers," Instructor Albert Turco said. "One of our core values at Northeast is being able to give back to our communities, so we didn't think twice about bringing this project to life."

After carpentry students finished the marker holders, Greenwood students, as part of their work in art class, painted the blocks different colors.

The blocks are now an integral part of Drago's classroom, and are able to travel from table to table as needed for art projects.

"Northeast Metro Tech is such a great resource and we're so happy that carpentry students could help us with this project," Drago said. "The kids were so excited to see the marker holders and use them. We love them!"

COPS FOR KIDS WITH CANCER HELP LOCAL FAMILY

Five-year-old Everett resident, Sergio Gil, was surprised with a $5,000 monetary donation from Cops For Kids With Cancer at the Everett Police Station on Thursday afternoon, May 30. Detective Robert Hall and Retired Boston Police Captain Edward McNelley worked with the Everett Police Patrolman's Union to put together a warm welcome for the young boy and his family.

Sergio is currently in remission and is doing well after battling Hodgkin's Lymphoma.

Sergio Gil enjoyed coloring at the Everett Police station.

Edward McNelley of Cops For Kids With Cancer presented a check to the family.

The Gil family, Sergio, sister Eva, mom Rosy, and father Sergio were welcomed behind the scenes at the Everett Police Department.

Edward McNelley, of Cops For Kids With Cancer, presented Sergio with a goodie bag of toys, treats, and coloring books upon his arrival.

Boston Police Officer Peter Moscaritolo greeted Sergio Gil outside of his home in Everett to bring him on a police escort to the Everett Police Department for the presentation of his check.

EHS softball team ready for state tourney

The Everett High softball team is awaiting word of its seeding and first-round opponent in the upcoming Division 1 North Sectional of the MIAA state softball tournament.

Announcement of the brackets and opening pairings were expected yesterday (Tuesday) as the Independent was going to press.

Coach Stacy Poste-Schiavo's squad wrapped up its regular season this past week with three contests.

Last Thursday, the Lady Crimson Tide made the long trek to Greater Lawrence and returned with a 10-0 victory that made for a happy bus ride home.

Ariana Garay tossed all seven innings, scattering six hits and walking none while striking out five opponents to record the shutout victory.

Everett gave Garay all the support she would need in the opening inning with four runs, and then added three runs in each of the second and third frames to build a 10-0 cushion that Ariana and the Everett defense maintained the rest of the way.

A host of Lady Crimson Tide supplied the offensive firepower, led by Maddy Smith, who was a perfect 3-for-3 with a single, double, triple, and four RBI.

Maddy Duraes went 2-for-4 and scored two runs, Kaylee Nearen went 2-for-4 with an RBI, and Garay helped her own cause with two base hits and two RBI.

On Saturday the Lady Crimson Tide dropped a 5-0 decision to Northeastern Conference champion Lynn Classical, which is one of the top-ranked teams in the state.

Classical scored three runs in the second inning on two hits and two errors. The Lady Rams then added two more markers in the sixth on three hits and an error.

"We only had four hits," noted Poste-Schiavo. "We hit to directly to people and their outfielders made great catches."

The loss dropped the Lady

Cardinale competes at All-State Meet

Junior Carolann Cardinale represented Everett High at this past weekend's All-State Track & Field Meet that was held at Westfield State College.

Carolann competed in her specialty, the javelin. She had qualified for the all-states in that event thanks to her medal-winning performance the week before in the Eastern Mass. Division 1 meet.

Carolann finished as 11th-best javelin thrower in the state with a toss of 109'-7".

"Even though Carolann didn't throw what she wanted to, the experience of being at a meet like this is motivating her for next year," said EHS head coach Jehu Cimea. "She is excited for the 2020 season."

for their course completion. Over half of the school's students come from the casino's host city of Everett or many of the surrounding communities including Boston, Malden, Chelsea, Medford and Cambridge...Offering these new careers to local residents was a critical priority of the Expanded Gaming Act and many graduates were those seeking to try a new career, find a new job after retirement or hoping to be part of something new and exciting – working at a destination resort casino that is the largest private development project in the Commonwealth's history."

The ceremony was as much a family celebration as it was a graduation, and it was for most the first step towards a new career in gaming.

George Magee, director of the Institute, said this was the fulfillment of a dream for many of the graduates – a dream to change careers and get in on the ground floor of a brand new industry.

"At some point last summer or fall, after having watched that beautiful building going up, everyone being honored here today made a decision to take a chance on themselves and apply to the class," he said. "By taking that chance, they put a plan into action. Maybe they had a dream of being a dealer. Between September of 2018 and April of 2019, they committed to making their plan a reality and they worked hard to make sure that they would succeed."

Magee said every graduate of the program spent at least nine weeks, and some as many as 23 weeks learning the procedures, techniques and rules of poker, blackjack and other games. Not only did they learn the games technically, he said, but also they have learned the importance of great service in the gaming industry.

"Do not stop having dreams," said Magee. "Go forward knowing that you have accomplished much; keep setting goals and working to achieve them, and you will spend the rest of your life enjoying your successes." Cambridge College's Philip Page and Mark Rotondo said they were happy to have their institution taking part in the training of new Encore dealers. Both said they look forward to continuing the partnership in the long-term.

"Each of the individuals you see here in attendance have made the choice to learn a new profession and take the critical step to access the opportunities to improve the lives of themselves, their families and their community," said Rotondo. "More importantly, this program and partnership holds a special place for me. Growing up in Everett, playing baseball at Lynde Street Park and working as a longshoreman on the other side of the Alford Street Bridge, it gives me great pride to say together we have been successful in upholding these principles."

For the Fall term, there were 1,964 applicants, and 324 were accepted, with 166 registering for the program. Of those, 62 percent registered for blackjack and 38 percent for poker. In that class, 68 percent were male, and 32 percent were female.

Some 49 percent were persons of color (Asians were at 28 percent), and 49 percent were from the host and surrounding communities. Everett had 10 percent of that class, with Boston having 14 percent and Malden 11 percent.

In the most recent, Spring 2019 term, there were 1,424 applicants, with 328 accepted and 179 registering for programs.

Most chose blackjack at 64 percent, and 36 chose poker.

The class was more even in the gender lines, with 59 percent male and 41 percent female. There were 44 percent people of color (Asians at 29 percent), and 48 percent were from the host or surrounding communities. In that class, Everett had 12 percent, while Malden had 17 percent and Boston had 8 percent.

Officials from Cambridge College, Encore Boston Harbor, and the Massachusetts Gaming Commission took part in the ceremony. They are (L-R) Philip Page, MGC Commissioner Bruce Stebbins, Institute Director George Magee, Encore President Bob DeSalvio, Encore's Doug Williams and Mark Rotondo.

Bruce Stebbins of the Massachusetts Gaming Commission addressed the crowd of upcoming Encore Boston Harbor employees.

President of Encore Boston Harbor, Bob DeSalvio, congratulated the students and was humbled they chose to go to the school to prepare for jobs at Encore.

George Magee, director of the Greater Boston Gaming Career Institute, congratulated the students on the completion of the program.

Mark Rotondo, Vice President of Cambridge College, was pleased to collaborate with Encore Boston Harbor for the dealer school.

EHS students beautify every corner of the city one brushstroke at a time

By Seth Daniel

When a handful of Everett High students reported to their latest mural project, they didn't even know they were in Everett.

For all intents and purposes, few Everett residents had put a foot on that part of Everett for generations.

That little sliver is under the Commuter Rail Bridge on Mystic View Road adjacent to the Encore Boston Harbor resort casino. It is under that Bridge where a brand new walking and bike path have been carved out of what was no-man's land that the students have found a willing campus for their art.

This week, Everett High art students and their teachers are embarking two of the largest – and soon to be most visible – murals yet to be created.

The crew has painted electrical boxes, storm drains and a large mural on the Community Garden, but this latest mural is likely to be seen by not only Everett residents, but also bike commuters and guests of the casino from every corner of the world.

"I didn't even know this place existed; I thought it was just a swamp," said junior Gillian Avelar. "I'm glad we're painting it because it will be beautiful now. It's going to be so much better. We're making it into something cool that people can see on their way to the casino. People commuting to work on the path might see this and say, 'What the heck' as they go to work. I want all of these people to come through and see what Everett is all about. We've been doing things like this a lot more and I like it because people can see our work and know Everett is a place that is changing."

The two, 26-foot murals sit on the concrete abutments of the Bridge where the new path connects from the Gateway Mall to the exquisite Encore HarborWalk. So far, the mural has overlays of walking paths, swans, cranes, and other environmental pictures interspersed with ideas like 'Freedom.'

Art Teacher Annette LeRay

and Art Department Head Amanda Gill have been spearheading the project, but it has become more of a rite of passage for the students in the Everett High art programs.

"It is starting to be this thing the advanced art students look forward to each year," said LeRay. "It's like a rite of passage now to paint a mural. It's also great for graduating seniors to put on their college applications that they have done a community mural."

LeRay said it is a challenging mural because it is so large, but it also gives the students a much bigger canvas to relay their ideas of the new Everett – a place not defined by industry, pollution and inaccessibility. Rather, the new mural shows Everett as a place connected to the waterfront and wildlife – not to mention active pursuits like walking and exercise.

"I think the students have put a lot of effort into it," she said. "This mural is all about rejuvenating the area. The students are very excited about that idea. I've even had some seniors show up to work even though they don't have to be here. My big hope is that so many people from all over the world will get to see the kids' work every day as they pass through."

Alevar said she is looking to likely go to art school, and is thinking about Rhode Island School of Design or Monserat. Beyond that, she said she is excited to return to the mural years from now and see her and her friends' work on the Bridge. "I'm glad we're making Everett more beautiful now, and I'm glad we're making it a more positive place through art," she said.

EBNHC honors two at Monday's Art of Health Care Event

By John Lynds

On Monday the East Boston Neighborhood Health Center held its seventh annual Art of Health Care event at the ICA's Watershed at the Boston Shipyard and Marina.

This year the annual innovative fundraiser to celebrate EBNHC's mission in the community and the healing impact of art will paid special tribute to President of New England Baptist Hospital David Passafaro and EBNHC Board of Directors Clerk Jennifer Blanco, who received the EBNHC's prestigious Maestro Award for their dedication to the community and city.

Passafaro is president of New England Baptist Hospital (NEBH). Previously, he served as senior vice president of external affairs overseeing the offices of Community and Government Relations, Philanthropy, Real Estate and Construction.

Passafaro has extensive government and political experience, serving as Chief of Staff for the Office of Mayor Thomas M. Menino, and President of Boston 2004, Inc., a single purpose nonprofit that represents the city in staging the Democratic National Convention. In the early 1980s, he served in Washington D.C. working for the US Senate and in the early 1990s as a lobbyist in Washington D.C. and Boston with the firm McDermott/O'Neil & Associates.

Prior to joining NEBH, Passafaro served as vice president for business development at Suffolk Construction Company where he was responsible for business development and client relationships for clients in the commercial, hospital, healthcare and higher education sectors in the Northeast. He also served as Vice President for Business Development at William A. Berry & Son Construction and Managing Director for Real Estate at Cambridge Associates Holdings Company.

Passafaro previously served on several boards and commissions, including: Boston Medical Center, Board of Trustees, Finance Chairman; Chairman of Boston Medical Center Insurance Co., LTD and GMPCI, LTD, both captive insurance companies; Zoo New England Board of Directors; and City of Boston Rent Equity Board. David holds a BA in political science from Marquette University and a MA in international affairs and foreign policy from Georgetown University.

For nearly two decades, Blanco has provided at-risk youth and families with services and resources that foster stable family relationships and enhance children's physical, emotional, and cognitive well-being. Blanco began her career at East Boston Head Start as a part-time summer teaching assistant. In 2000, she took a position teaching preschool at a private school. Five years later, Jennifer returned to East Boston Head Start as a family advocate, where she held the position of family advocate until 2010.

After serving as a family community engagement supervisor at Parker Hill, in 2011 Jennifer transferred to the Jamaica Plain Head Start. In 2014 she returned to the East Boston Head Start location, where she works today.

Blanco holds a master of science degree in family studies from Wheelock College. She has served as Clerk of the EBNHC Board of Directors since 2001.

Each year through corporate and private sponsorships, ticket sales, a silent art auction, raffles and other donations the event raises $250,000 for the Health Center's crucial programs.

EBNHC manages innovative programs that support children's health and wellness. Through its Pediatrics and Family Medicine primary care departments, EBNHC has developed relationships that help meet the unique challenges faced by children and young adults in the community. While positively impacting children's lives, these programs have many non-reimbursable expenses and often run at significant deficits. Fundraising, through individual and corporate donations as well as grants, allows EBNHC to continue these effective mission-aligned programs, which serve young community members most in need.

"The Art of Health Care event is very important to our Organization," said EBNHC CEO Manny Lopes. "The Health Center runs some amazing special programs that have huge impact in our community. Examples include our Let's Get Moving Program, which helps kids and families stay active and fit. Our CATCH Program, which closely coordinates care and activities for medically complex children. Our Project Shine, which coordinates care and does education around HIV. Our Youth and Young Adult Pathways Programs (YYAPP), based at our Education and Training Institute (ETI), helps children and young adults move onto positive paths toward healthy and responsible adulthood."

Featured cuisine at the event included offerings from Chef Jose Duarte of Taranta; Dan Lyons of Maverick Marketplace Café; Shelly Demmon of Chelsea Station; and Anthony Pino of the Cunard Tavern.

East Boston Neighborhood Health Center and South End Community Health Center announce intent to merge

This week, in one of the first mergers of its kind in Massachusetts, East Boston Neighborhood Health Center (EBNHC) and South End Community Health Center (SECHC) announced their intent to merge after signing a definitive merger agreement.

Pending federal and state regulatory approvals, SECHC will become a part of EBNHC with Manny Lopes remaining as President & CEO. The merger will add SECHC's 180-plus employees and 19,000 patients to the largest community health center in Massachusetts and one of the largest in the country. SECHC will continue to provide comprehensive health care services in the South End.

"As SECHC celebrates 50 years of service to the South End, we also look to the future. Our number one goal is to strengthen high-quality care for this community in an increasingly complex and volatile health care system that favors economies of scale," said Bill Walczak, CEO and president of SECHC. "We have strategically considered many pathways to achieving this goal over the past several years and are delighted to have reached an agreement with EBNHC that positions community-based care to thrive."

Manny Lopes, president and CEO of EBNHC, added, "Our organizations have shared a common mission for decades and there is a lot we can learn from one another. As health centers, it is our duty to innovate and grow in financially sustainable ways to ensure we are preserving and advancing affordable, accessible, high-quality care in communities that need it most. We believe that welcoming SECHC into our organization will benefit patients, staff, and our communities."

Post-merger, EBNHC will support approximately 1,200 employees and more than 100,000 patients per year with an operating budget of $165 million, providing high-quality services and programs in neighborhoods on both sides of Boston Harbor.

The East Boston Neighborhood Health Center (EBNHC) has been a vital part of its community for more than 40 years, providing easily accessible, high-quality health care to all who live and work in East Boston and the surrounding communities of Chelsea, Revere, Everett, and Winthrop. EBNHC supports more than 1,000 employees and handles 300,000 visits per year – more than any other ambulatory care center in New England.

South End Community Health Center (SECHC) is a comprehensive health care organization for all residents of the South End and surrounding communities. Founded in 1969, SECHC is committed to providing the highest quality, coordinated health care that is both culturally and linguistically sensitive to every patient, regardless of race, ethnicity, sexual orientation, gender identity, physical ability, and/or income. SECHC's multi-cultural and highly trained staff of 180-plus serves more than 19,000 patients with an operating budget of $16.5 million.

MFA offers free admission to Everett residents

Paris was the center of nightlife and spectacle in the late 19th century, a moment immortalized in evocative posters, prints and paintings by Henri de Toulouse-Lautrec (1864–1901). The artist's extraordinary attention to the performers, dancers and actors of Montmartre—the heart of the city's bohemian nightlife—is the focus of Toulouse-Lautrec and the Stars of Paris, on view in the Ann and Graham Gund Gallery through August 4, 2019. The exhibition of approximately 200 works is a collaboration between the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston (MFA), and the Boston Public Library (BPL), drawing on both institutions' extensive holdings of rarely displayed graphic works by Toulouse-Lautrec. It also includes a selection of loans from the Harvard Art Museums, the Houghton Library of Harvard University and the Metropolitan Museum of Art, as well as local private collectors. Toulouse-Lautrec and the Stars of Paris explores the artist's enthusiastic participation in the celebrity culture of his day and how, to a remarkable degree, he defined it for generations to follow. In addition to his famous lithographic prints and posters, which distilled the defining gestures, costumes and expressions of "les stars" of the day into instantly recognizable images, the exhibition features never-before-displayed early drawings and a selection of paintings by Toulouse-Lautrec. Works by his contemporaries, including Pierre Bonnard, Mary Cassatt, Edgar Degas, John Singer Sargent and James Jacques Joseph Tissot, are also incorporated throughout the galleries, as well as recently restored period films, music, instruments and fashion accessories. The exhibition is accompanied by an illustrated catalogue produced by MFA Publications and a range of public programming offered at the Museum and the BPL's Central Library and 25 neighborhood branches. BPL cardholders can sample MFA membership with free admission throughout the month of June 2019. "Toulouse-Lautrec and the Stars of Paris" is organized by the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, and the Boston Public Library. Sponsored by Encore Boston Harbor. Generously supported by The Boston Foundation. Additional support from the great-grandchildren of Albert H. Wiggin, the Cordover Exhibition Fund, and anonymous funders.

"We are proud to partner with the Boston Public Library to bring together these two rich collections of work by Henri de Toulouse-Lautrec. It's exciting to be able to bring to life the spectacles of modern Paris, and offer the public unprecedented access to works of art in new ways," said Matthew Teitelbaum, Ann and Graham Gund Director of the MFA. "This has been a true collaboration, and we're extremely grateful to all of our colleagues at the BPL."

The MFA's conservation team undertook the preparation and framing of pieces from the BPL's collection for the exhibition. Nine oversized posters were also sent for extensive conservation treatment, framing and digitization at the Northeast Document Conservation Center (NED-CC) in Andover; this work was jointly funded by the MFA and the Associates of the Boston Public Library. Five of these posters are on view at the Museum in Toulouse-Lautrec and the Stars of Paris, while the remaining four are displayed at the BPL's Central Library in Copley Square. Additionally, the BPL's complete collection of more than 350 works by Toulouse-Lautrec has been digitized and is available on digitalcommonwealth.org.

"Boston Public Library is thrilled to take our partnership with the Museum of Fine Arts to a new level, collaborating on this joint exhibition featuring the works of Henri de Toulouse-Lautrec and making them widely accessible to the public," said David Leonard, President of the Boston Public Library. "This is not just a superb example of Boston's cultural institutions working together, but also helps us unlock our vast historical collections for the enjoyment of all. This exhibition and its programming allow us to explore themes at the intersection of art and celebrity across the centuries."

6th Anniversary

It's been 6 years now that you been gone and the pain and hurt are still with us in our hearts.

As time goes by, everyone says that it gets easier but for us its just more painful because the longer you don't see your loved one the more sad and hurt you are. Life is never the same when you lose someone special.

We will miss you everyday for the rest of our lives and our emptiness in our hearts will never be fulfilled until we see you again.

We lost our Beloved Gracie last year. We love and miss her very much

As for myself, dad, King, Pumpkin, and Lola we will see you in our dreams. Until we meet again.

Loved and sadly missed by loving husband Len, and loving daughter Lisa.

- LEGAL NOTICE - CITY OF EVERETT

BOARD OF APPEALS
484 Broadway
Everett, Massachusetts 02149
(617) 381-7445

To Whom It May Concern:

This notice is to inform you that a public hearing will be held on Monday, June 17, 2019 at 7:00 PM, Everett City Hall, 3rd Floor, George Keverian Hearing Room. All interested parties may attend and opinions will be heard regarding the following petition. Whereas a petition has been presented by:

Rona/do Santos

19 Bartlett Street
Everett, MA 02149

RE: 39 Rich Street, Everett, MA 02149

To said Board of Appeals, asking for a Variance of the Building Zone Ordinance of the City, as applied: Applicant seeks a building permit to raze the existing single family dwelling and reconstruct a new three (3) family dwelling on a 6150 sf located within the dwelling district. The new structure will create an FAR of .86 exceeding the .5 requirement for the district. Plans submitted by Kunz Associates dated 4/03/2019 indicate compliant parking of 6 spaces.

REASON FOR DENIAL:

Permit was denied in accordance to the City of Everett Zoning Ordinances Appendix A:

1. Everett Zoning Ordinance APPENDIX A Section 4(a)1-limits a single or double semi detached dwelling existing at the time of the first enactment of the Zoning Ordinance (1926) to convert to not more than a total of three (3) dwelling units. The applicant must seek relief in the form of a variance to allow a raze and reconstruct proposal.
2. Everett Zoning Ordinances, APPENDIX A Section 4 (b) (2) c. - requires an FAR not to exceed .5. Relief must be requested in the form of a variance.
