THE REVERE BEACH SAND SCULPTING FESTIVAL IS THIS WEEKEND

One of the premier events of the summer season in the Greater Boston area is set to take place this weekend when the 19th annual International Sand Sculpting Festival returns to Revere Beach this Friday, July 28, through Sunday, July 30.

America’s first public beach will host 15 sand sculptors from around the world who will display their amazing creations as they compete for $28,000 in prizes. The theme for this year’s festival is King Kong, in observance of the 90th anniversary of the epic movie that captivates audiences to this day.

The festival is a free, family-friendly event that is hosted by the Revere Beach Partnership, a non-profit organization, and truly has something for everyone of all ages. The festival will feature vendors, food trucks, and a fireworks extravaganza on Saturday night in addition to the highly-competitive sand sculpture competition.

For entertainment, there will be over 20 acts of street performers, live music, and a special performance from Blue Man Group, in addition to various amusement rides. Vendors will include about 30 food trucks and there will be about 20 emerging small businesses and nonprofits taking part in the Beach Shop Pavillion.

For the first time, the Samuel Adams Beer Garden will offer live music, games, and entertainment from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday. The awards ceremony is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. on Saturday, with the fireworks scheduled to go off at 9 p.m. Saturday evening.

With the promise of good weather, it is expected that close to a million visitors will turn out for the festivities. Needless to say, public transportation via the MBTA’s Blue Line -- which will be free -- is the best way to attend the festival, especially with the Sumner Tunnel closed for repairs. The Revere Beach and Wonderland T stops literally are just minutes away by foot from Revere Beach.

This year’s festival promises to be better than ever -- and we urge all of our readers to take advantage of this unique and fun-filled opportunity.

A SAD, TRAGIC WEEK -- SAFETY ALWAYS MUST BE NUMBER ONE

When we looked at our Boston newspapers this past Thursday, a cavalcade of headlines, one-after-another, told stories of sadness and tragedy throughout our area.

There was the four year-old boy who was struck and killed by a hit-and-run driver in Hyde Park; the brothers who died in a single-car accident in Brockton; and the 11 year-old daughter of a former New England Revolution player who died in a boating accident in North Carolina. Saturday brought more tragedy -- a 21 year-old man who died while swimming in a lake in Hopkinton and a 17 year-old girl who died in a boating accident on the Cape.

These incidents remind us how precarious our lives, and those of our loved ones, can be -- and how life can take a turn for the tragic in just the blink of an eye. Accidents are the leading cause of death for young people in our country. Safety for ourselves and our loved ones never should be taken for granted and always must be our first priority in everything we do.

GOOD LUCK USA WOMEN’S SOCCER!

We wish to express our support for the U.S. women’s soccer team as they embark on their quest for a third straight FIFA World Cup, which this year is being held in Australia and New Zealand.

The U.S. women’s team has achieved unparalleled success in the World Cup, with four titles since 1991, and once again is among the favorites to win the championship, despite injuries to some of the American stars.

The women’s World Cup is something we look forward to every four years -- and we trust that 2023 once again will prove to be an exciting tournament for both ardent and casual soccer fans of all ages.

GUEST OP-ED

Life is always changing

our areas is that we don’t have much moderately cool weather or moderately warm. It seems to either be blazing hot or freezing cold.

It’s hard to be satisfied. We get too hot and then we get too cold. Triple digit heat is insane and so is below zero. No one wants either one.

Have you ever been satisfied with your life? When were you satisfied? Were you happy when your parent was telling you what to do and how to live? Do you still have them telling you what to do? The day comes when they are no longer around. Most likely you didn’t take as much advice from them as you should have.

We don’t pay much attention to old people when we are young but we wish we had. They knew more than us but we thought we knew everything. We now know how smart they were. We learn the hard way and by the time we figure it out life has greatly changed.

Life is always changing. Children grow into adults. Our bodies change. We get old if we are very fortunate and blessed.

If possible, try to be happy and content today with what you have, where you are and what you are doing. Life changes and while it may get better and better, it can always become worse.

Enjoy the sunshine and enjoy the rain. Enjoy the car ride or sitting in your swing. Enjoy whatever labor you have to do. The time is coming when all will be through. Live your life the best you can and there will be times you don’t understand. So, make your schedule, make your plans and always do the best you can. After all is said and done, it’s all in God’s hands.

structional football camp at Everett Memorial Stadium. Del Gaizo said Fenelon is a versatile talent with a tremendous knowledge of sports. “I’ve known Michelle since she was a terrific athlete at Everett High School,” said Del Gaizo. “She really knows her craft and conveys it very well. She is a star. She’s someone that I could see on NBC Sports Boston or ESPN. She has that persona and on-air presence.” A sports correspondent for the Boston Globe Following her career at Everett High School where she was a three-year basketball captain for the Crimson Tide, Fenelon, daughter of Marcel Fenelon and Marcelle Fenelon, received her bachelor’s degree from UMass Boston in English, with a concentration in Professional Writing. She also holds a master’s degree in Broadcasting Digital Journalism with a focus in Sports from Syracuse University’s famous Newhouse School of Public Communications. While a student at UMass/Boston, Fenelon worked as a correspondent for the Boston Globe. She covered girls high school basketball, soccer, and lacrosse. For the Globe’s girls basketball beat, she covered the State Tournament at the TD Garden, compiled the Top 20 rankings, and participated in the selection of the newspaper’s prestigious All-Scholastic Team. “That was my introduction to print journalism, which was my dream,” said Fenelon. “I had started writing in high school for the Crimson Times. I was in a sportswriting class with Mr. [Michael] Fineran because I loved sports. Mr. Fineran introduced me to Mr. [Ryan] McGowan, who was the advisor for the Crimson Times, so I began writing for the high school newspaper. Mike Carraggi, who had written stories for the Crimson Times and was working at the Boston Globe at the time, read one of my articles, and that Everett connection got me to the Boston Globe.” Working at ESPN It was while Michelle was watching the Lakers play the Sixers in the 2001 NBA Finals “that something just clicked and I was like, ‘I love sports’, and I became obsessed. I began watching ESPN all the time, and I said, “I want to build a career around that.” She eventually realized that dream of working at ESPN, taking a production assistant’s job at the network following her graduate studies at Syracuse. A woman of many talents Michelle Fenelon recalls attending modeling school while a student at Everett High. “My father put me in modeling school in high school and I did not like it,” said Michelle candidly. “I had to miss a basketball practice because of my modeling school graduation.” But a few days after the modeling school graduation ceremony, Fenelon received a correspondence from a modeling agency that wanted to represent her. Her interest in modeling grew in the summer of 2020 during COVID. Soon after, she left her job with the City of Everett. “I started taking acting classes, and by the third class, I knew that this was I wanted to do,” said Michelle. “Within six months, I booked my first national commercial for Fanatics. My audition was to act like you’re watching your favorite team and they’re doing a last-second play. In my mind, I was cheering for Malcom Butler on his interception [in the Super Bowl] at the goal line. That was my audition, and it just felt like life came full circle.” Following her success with the Fanatics commercial, Fenelon signed on with modeling and acting agents. She has also enlisted the assistance of a modeling coach who helped her secure a contract with a prominent modeling agency. Her most rewarding role: girls basketball coach As she continues to advance with modeling and acting opportunities, Fenelon suggests that her most satisfying role may be as a basketball coach at her alma mater. “I love coaching Everett girls basketball,” said Fenelon, who is in her third season. “I’ve been coaching some of my players since they were eighth graders, and to see their growth has been one of the best things as a coach to see. I told the girls, ‘There’s a moment in a coach’s career when you look at your players and you realize they finally get it.’ And that just makes it all worth it. To see some of my players starting on varsity and playing well, and being great students, that means the world to me.” Following her dream Michelle Fenelon is currently based in Boston, but her rising career may require relocating to New York City where there are more modeling opportunities and auditions for movie and television roles. “I go to New York all the time,” said Fenelon. “I shot the Ebay commercial in New Jersey and Garnier Fructis in New York, so I’m back and forth all the time.” She is also considering a move to Atlanta where her television and film agent is based. Michelle Fenelon was asked if she’s excited about the trajectory of her career. “People ask me, ‘What do you want out of this?’, she said. “I want to be an inspiration because I take risks and I take big risks. If I’m not happy, I remove myself from that situation. I do what I’m passionate about, and my goal is to be on TV. It’s always been the goal. I thought it was going to be as a sports reporter, but I want to be on TV as an actress. I want to be a series regular. I want to be in those big movies. I want to show people that you can change your mind at any age. I changed my mind at 28, 29 years old. As long as you’re pursuing your goals, you’re happy, and you’re focused, I think that’s so important.” The future is bright for Michelle Fenelon. “I know what I want, and I’m going to do everything in my power to get it,” she said confidently.

A SHORT STORY ABOUT GROWING UP WITH AN UNFAIR ADVANTAGE.

POLIO.

As one of the last American children to contract polio, Jeffrey Galpin grew up in a world of iron lungs and body casts, alone with his imagination. His story would be dramatic enough if it was just about his battle with this dreaded disease.

But Jeffrey Galpin did more than survive polio. He went on to a list of achievements in medical research—including being the principal investigator in applying the first gene therapy for HIV/AIDS.

Dr. Galpin actually credits his own incurable condition for giving him the focus that made him so passionate in his research. His story leaves us with two of the most contagious messages we know. Don't give up, and remember to give back. If Dr. Galpin's story inspires just one more person to make a difference, then its telling here has been well worth while.

The sand is here, the sun is coming and so are millions of people getting ready to visit the Nation’s First Public Beach, Historic Revere Beach.

For the 19th festival theme, Kong is the featured character, and a bigger than life figure he is. Kong has battled every monster known to mankind, including men out to destroy his home. Lately King Kong has partnered with Godzilla to save the world, however this year he is donning a swimsuit and visiting the sunny beach in Revere, celebrating 90 years as part of our heritage and movie enjoyment.

Getting There
With the Sumner Tun-

Loose dog!

By Penny & Ed Cherubino

Recently we helped a neighbor protect a loose dog who had escaped from a pack of eight dogs tied up outside a building. We moved in slowly and surrounded the pup. Fortunately, we all knew that our best hope to keep the dog from running into traffic was to calmly and quietly encourage the dog to come to one of us. While that didn't happen, we did keep the dog safe until the dog walker returned.

We've participated in several dog recoveries and learned a few tricks from our successes. In the case of a pretty Bichon Frise, a group effort caught her, and a water bottle strap became a temporary leash. A call to the phone number on her tag revealed that her person didn't know she was missing.

In another instance, a neighbor was trying to catch a rather aggressive, large, mixed breed who had broken free from a prong collar while walking with a family member who did not know the dog well. Penny took a neighbor's dog so he would have two hands to work with, and so his dog would be safe from the growling, snapping escapee.

With no hope of getting the pinch collar back on the dog, we turned the leash into a noose and tried to lasso the animal. We offered treats to tempt the dog, but nothing was working. In the end, a young man joined the fray and held the dog by its ruff long enough to get the leash around its neck.

Catching a Loose Dog

If faced with a loose dog, follow the expert advice on what to do and what not to do. Don't grab or chase the dog. The Whole Dog Journal suggests you should not even talk to a scared and agitated dog.

Instead, they recommend using calming signals, "...mimicking the body language that dogs use to communicate peaceful intentions, avoid conflict, and defuse tension. Calming signals include yawning, using peripheral vision and blinking (never long, direct stares), and oblique approaches (moving from the side, not head on)."

Call animal control. They have the tools and training to capture stray dogs. Moreover, they can access records to locate the dog's family and provide a safe place to secure the dog until she is reunited with her people. Make this call even if it's your dog on the loose.

Three neighbors surrounded this dog who had pulled out of its collar while tied up with a pack of eight dogs outside a building.

Carefully Choose a Dog Walker

Our most recent experience ended when the dog walker came out of the building with two more dogs. The walker immediately rushed to the dog, made a one-arm grab, nearly dropped the pup, and then scolded the poor thing for breaking out of its collar.

The lesson from our experiences is that you must carefully choose any temporary guardian who walks your dog. Be realistic about how well that person can control the dog. Consider how many dogs a professional walker can safely manage. Ask if the walker's professional insurance covers them when walking a large pack.

Karen B. London, Ph.D., a Certified Applied Animal Behaviorist and Certified Professional Dog Trainer writing for

Bark Magazine, says, "It worries me when I see a person walking more than four or so dogs, which is a very challenging thing to do." She explained that some jurisdictions limit the number of dogs a person can walk at one time. Ask yourself if a limit is something you would like your city or town to consider.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

The sweet life: Apple pie

By Elizabeth Umbro Cavallaro

The quintessential apple pie served on Thanksgiving Day originated in England in the fourteenth century. It spread into Europe and was brought to America by the Swedes and the Dutch. The British called this pie "the casserole with a pastry lid." It was made with raisins, pears and figs and contained no sugar. At this period in time, sugar was very expensive. The crust was hard and inedible and was only created to hold the apple mixture together.

Pertaining to your health, the apples are the only ingredient in this pie that are nutritious. This fruit contains lots of fiber with vitamin C. Not to worry about the calories because the pecan pie will do much more damage to your waistline.

This indulgence contains lots of sugar, syrup, nuts and butter. Today, our pastry crust is most delicious with a deep buttery and flaky texture. According to Americans the vote is in that apple pie is the most delicious of all desserts. Another vote is the contest of which is better cake or pie; the winner hands down is pie. I agree. Most cakes are dry and need whipped cream or ice cream. Apple pie wins the prize every time. The simplicity of this dessert ends on a high note. Our apple pie became part of the American culinary repertoire.

Years ago we did not have a pie plate in the kitchen because my mother did not bake. I requested one. Wednesday night was 'dish night' at the movies. For all of you baby-boomers who do not know what I am talking about, you would go to the movies and make a set of dishes. Most of the dishes were ten cents and the large servings dishes with the creamer and the sugar bowl was twenty five cents. You bought one dish each week whether you liked the movie or not; not the best china but was good enough for us. In those days, we enjoyed Bette Davis, Joan Crawford and Barbara Stanwyck. This was when movies were movies. The ladies always left the movie in tears; such great movies. All the neighborhood housewives would have the father stay home while

Jamnu Hariram Tahiliani

Loved music and singing

Jamnu Hariram Tahiliani passed away peacefully on July 23, at the age of 87. He was surrounded by his loving family--- his wife of 58 years, Savitri Tahiliani, his three daughters (Nisha, Meena and Priya), their spouses (Sundram, Gaurav and Craig), his seven grandchildren (Shiv, Shaila, Shalni, Rohan, Asha, Addie and Veer) and several of his brothers, nieces, nephews. In his last days, he was also surrounded by many of his friends who even arranged a musical tribute in his honor just two days before his death; and he surprised them all by joining in and signing one of his own favorite songs. Everyone who knew Jamnu knew how much he loved music and singing, especially alongside his wife. Jamnu was generous, witty, and gregarious, traits that were obvious to all even after a single meeting with him.

In his last years, he enjoyed his retirement at Priya Living, a South Asian senior living center in Santa Clara, California, where he was an active participant in daily activities such as card games, karaoke, and laughing yoga. Most of all, he enjoyed sitting in the courtyard among his friends, cutting jokes and telling stories of a life very well lived.

Jamnu was born on February 20, 1936 in Tando Allahyar, Sindh, the fourth of eight sons of Hariram Hazarimal Tahiliani and Bhagwani Hariram Tahiliani. In 1943, Jamnu and his family moved to Baroda where he and his brothers attended Rosary High School. Jamnu and his brothers consistently came in first in their respective classes. The school saw so much promise in the Tahiliani boys that they refused to allow them to withdraw after their father's untimely death and worked with their widowed mother to ensure that she could afford their tuition. This was a kindness that Jamnu did not forget, as demonstrated by the scholarship that he and his brothers established and the new high school auditorium to which Jamnu was a generous contributor.

After high school, Jamnu attended Maharaja Sayajirao University (MSU) where he was as successful in university as he was in high school. While earning his degree in civil engineering, he excelled in his academics, athletics and extracurriculars—he represented the MSU College of Engineering and Architecture in the intercollegiate debating competition; won several cross country races; was the doubles ring tennis champion three years in a row (and nationally ranked) and became the secretary of the Hiking Club, for which he fundraised and organized a hike to Milan Glacier in the Himalayas.

Among all his many achievements, Jamnu was most proud that he was elected as the Joint Secretary of the MSU Student Body of over 25,000 students. Although he was the underdog with the least financial resources, he struck up a financial deal with local shops to advertise their companies on his election flyers. Not only did he bring a struggling ice cream shop and a newly established pen factory the business that they desired from the MSU student body, but he also won the election in a landslide. This was an early demonstration of the entrepreneurial spirit that would one day lead him to achieving the American dream.

After graduation, Jamnu worked as an Assistant Engineer at the Bhilai Steel Project before being selected by the Union Public Service Commission (UPSC) to lead the Dantak Task Force in road construction in the Himalayan Kingdom of Bhutan. Jamnu was uniquely qualified for such a unique task given his engineering degree and his experience hiking the Milan Glacier, and as a result, he spent three and a half years designing and building roads in Bhutan. When the project was complete, he was transferred to Delhi where he worked in the Ministry of Transport as Executive Engineer before leaving India to come to the United States.

Jamnu moved to Memphis, Tennessee in 1969 and was joined a year later by his wife and eldest daughter, Nisha. While he earned a masters degree in Civil Engineering, with concentration in Structural Design, from Memphis State University, he also worked at the structural engineering firm Wooten Smith & Weiss. Ten years later, in 1979, he took the leap and established his own structural consulting firm, Tahiliani & Associates. The business thrived and eventually Jamnu was a licensed Professional Engineer (P.E.) in 28 of the 50 states, highly sought after by clients and highly respected by his fellow engineers and architects. To his colleagues, he was known for his pragmatic efficiency and flair for creative design. To his employees, he was known to be compassionate and generous, always encouraging and investing in their educations and licensures while also celebrating their personal and familial accomplishments. He owned and operated his firm for 22 years, and when his employees refused the offer of ownership, he sold it in 2002.

In addition to founding his own business, Jamnu was also one of the founding members of the Indian Association of Memphis (IAM) and the India Cultural Center and Temple (ICCT) of Memphis. When Jamnu arrived in Memphis, there were only four Indian families in the area and the closest Hindu temple was three hours away in Nashville. By the time he left Memphis in 2017, the IAM had hundreds of members, and the ICCT, with the help of his contributions and the donation of his structural engineering expertise, had built a Hindu temple on a plot of land that he helped choose in the greater Memphis area. He remained a lifetime member, contributor, and trustee until the end.

From humble beginnings as one of eight sons raised by a single mother, he went on to create a legacy that will outlive him. In India and in America, he built roads, bridges, a business, schools, churches, a Hindu temple, a beautiful family, and a fulfilled life. We will miss Jamnu—our father, our husband, our brother, our uncle, and our friend—more than words can say.

Services will be held today, Wednesday, July 26 at 10 a.m. at Alameda Family Funeral and Creation, 12341 Saratoga Sunnyvale Rd., Saratoga, CA 95070. To watch live or to watch and/or download at a later time, use the following link: <https://vimeo.com/event/3589386/f71bacbb67> they enjoyed their movie night. There was no such thing as a baby-sitter. They saw their movie and got their dish. The whole neighborhood had the same set of dinnerware. They did not go for coffee or a drink after the movie; they were expected to be home right after the movie. Wow, how things have changed!

Today brides are registered in the finer stores with a one setting of china priced at three or four hundred dollars. Again, I repeat myself, how things have changed! In later years, the table conversation goes back to where the dishes came from. We never had cloth napkins at the dinner table. We never knew the difference. My mother cherished a lace tablecloth which she received as a wedding present. I still have that tablecloth; it is one hundred years old and one of the most vivid memories of my life. It covered our kitchen table on a holiday. It has aged a bit and has become very fragile. Today I have about ten sets of tablecloths with napkins to match. Things certainly have changed.

According to chefs around the world, the best pies come from Germany with their strawberry pie, from Korea with their tomato pie, from Mexico with their lemon pie, from Australia with their French silk pie and from England with their shepard s pie. Of course, America has its famous apple pie.

In retrospect, I made my first apple pie that was not a success. The crust was very tough and the apples were mushy.

I realized that the dough must be very cold when rolled out and not to cut the apples so small. I needed some refined techniques. As I became more confident, my third pie had all the bells and whistles. I learned that the dough must be chilled along with the rolling pin for about thirty minutes. The trick here is three little words; cold, cold, cold. Flour your surface and your rolling pin. Roll the dough from the middle out and lay in the pie plate. The apples should be chunky.

I have spent the best moments of my life making pies. Once you have claimed victory, you will be master in the kitchen. My daughters learned and they pull perfect apple pies out of the oven every time.

One heaping tablespoon of flour

DOUGH FOR TWO CRUST PIE

Two and a half cups of flour

Two and a half sticks of butter or margarine

Pinch of salt

Six tablespoons of ice water

Mix, roll in two balls and refrigerate for thirty minutes. Set oven at 400F.

Peel apples and cut in chunks. In large bowl add ingredients. Flour your surface and roll out one crust a little bigger than your pie plate, lay in plate. Fold apple mixture in, roll out top crust and lay over pie. Crimp pie crust edge. Mix one egg yolk with a touch of water and brush over pie. Make slits with sharp knife. Lay on cookie sheet for spills. Bake for one hour. You will be so proud of yourself. Don't forget the ice cream!
